

THE MAID & MOUNTAIN.

BEADLE & COMPANY, 98 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

A. Williams & Co., Boston, Mass.

"Like an eagle caged, I pine
On this dull, unchanging shore,
Oh! give me the flashing brine,
The spray and the tempest's roar!"

Beadle's Dime Novels, No. 148,

To Issue Tuesday, April 21st,

WILL BE

OUTWARD BOUND:

OR

THE ISLAND GIRL.

A Romance of the Eastern Isles!

BY ROGER STARBUCK,

AUTHOR OF "PORT AT LAST," "LOST SHIP," "ON THE DEEP," ETC.

An ever-pleasing writer is the author of this work. His knowledge of the sea is perfect, and his conception of "life on the ocean wave" is a full of spirit as the winds are full of music.

"Outward Bound" introduces the reader to persons and incidents a once peculiar and impressive.

As a story its interest is so divided between sea and shore, male and fe male, that the reader is a captive to both.

For sale by all Newsdealers; or sent, post-paid, to any address, or receipt of price—Ten Cents. Address,

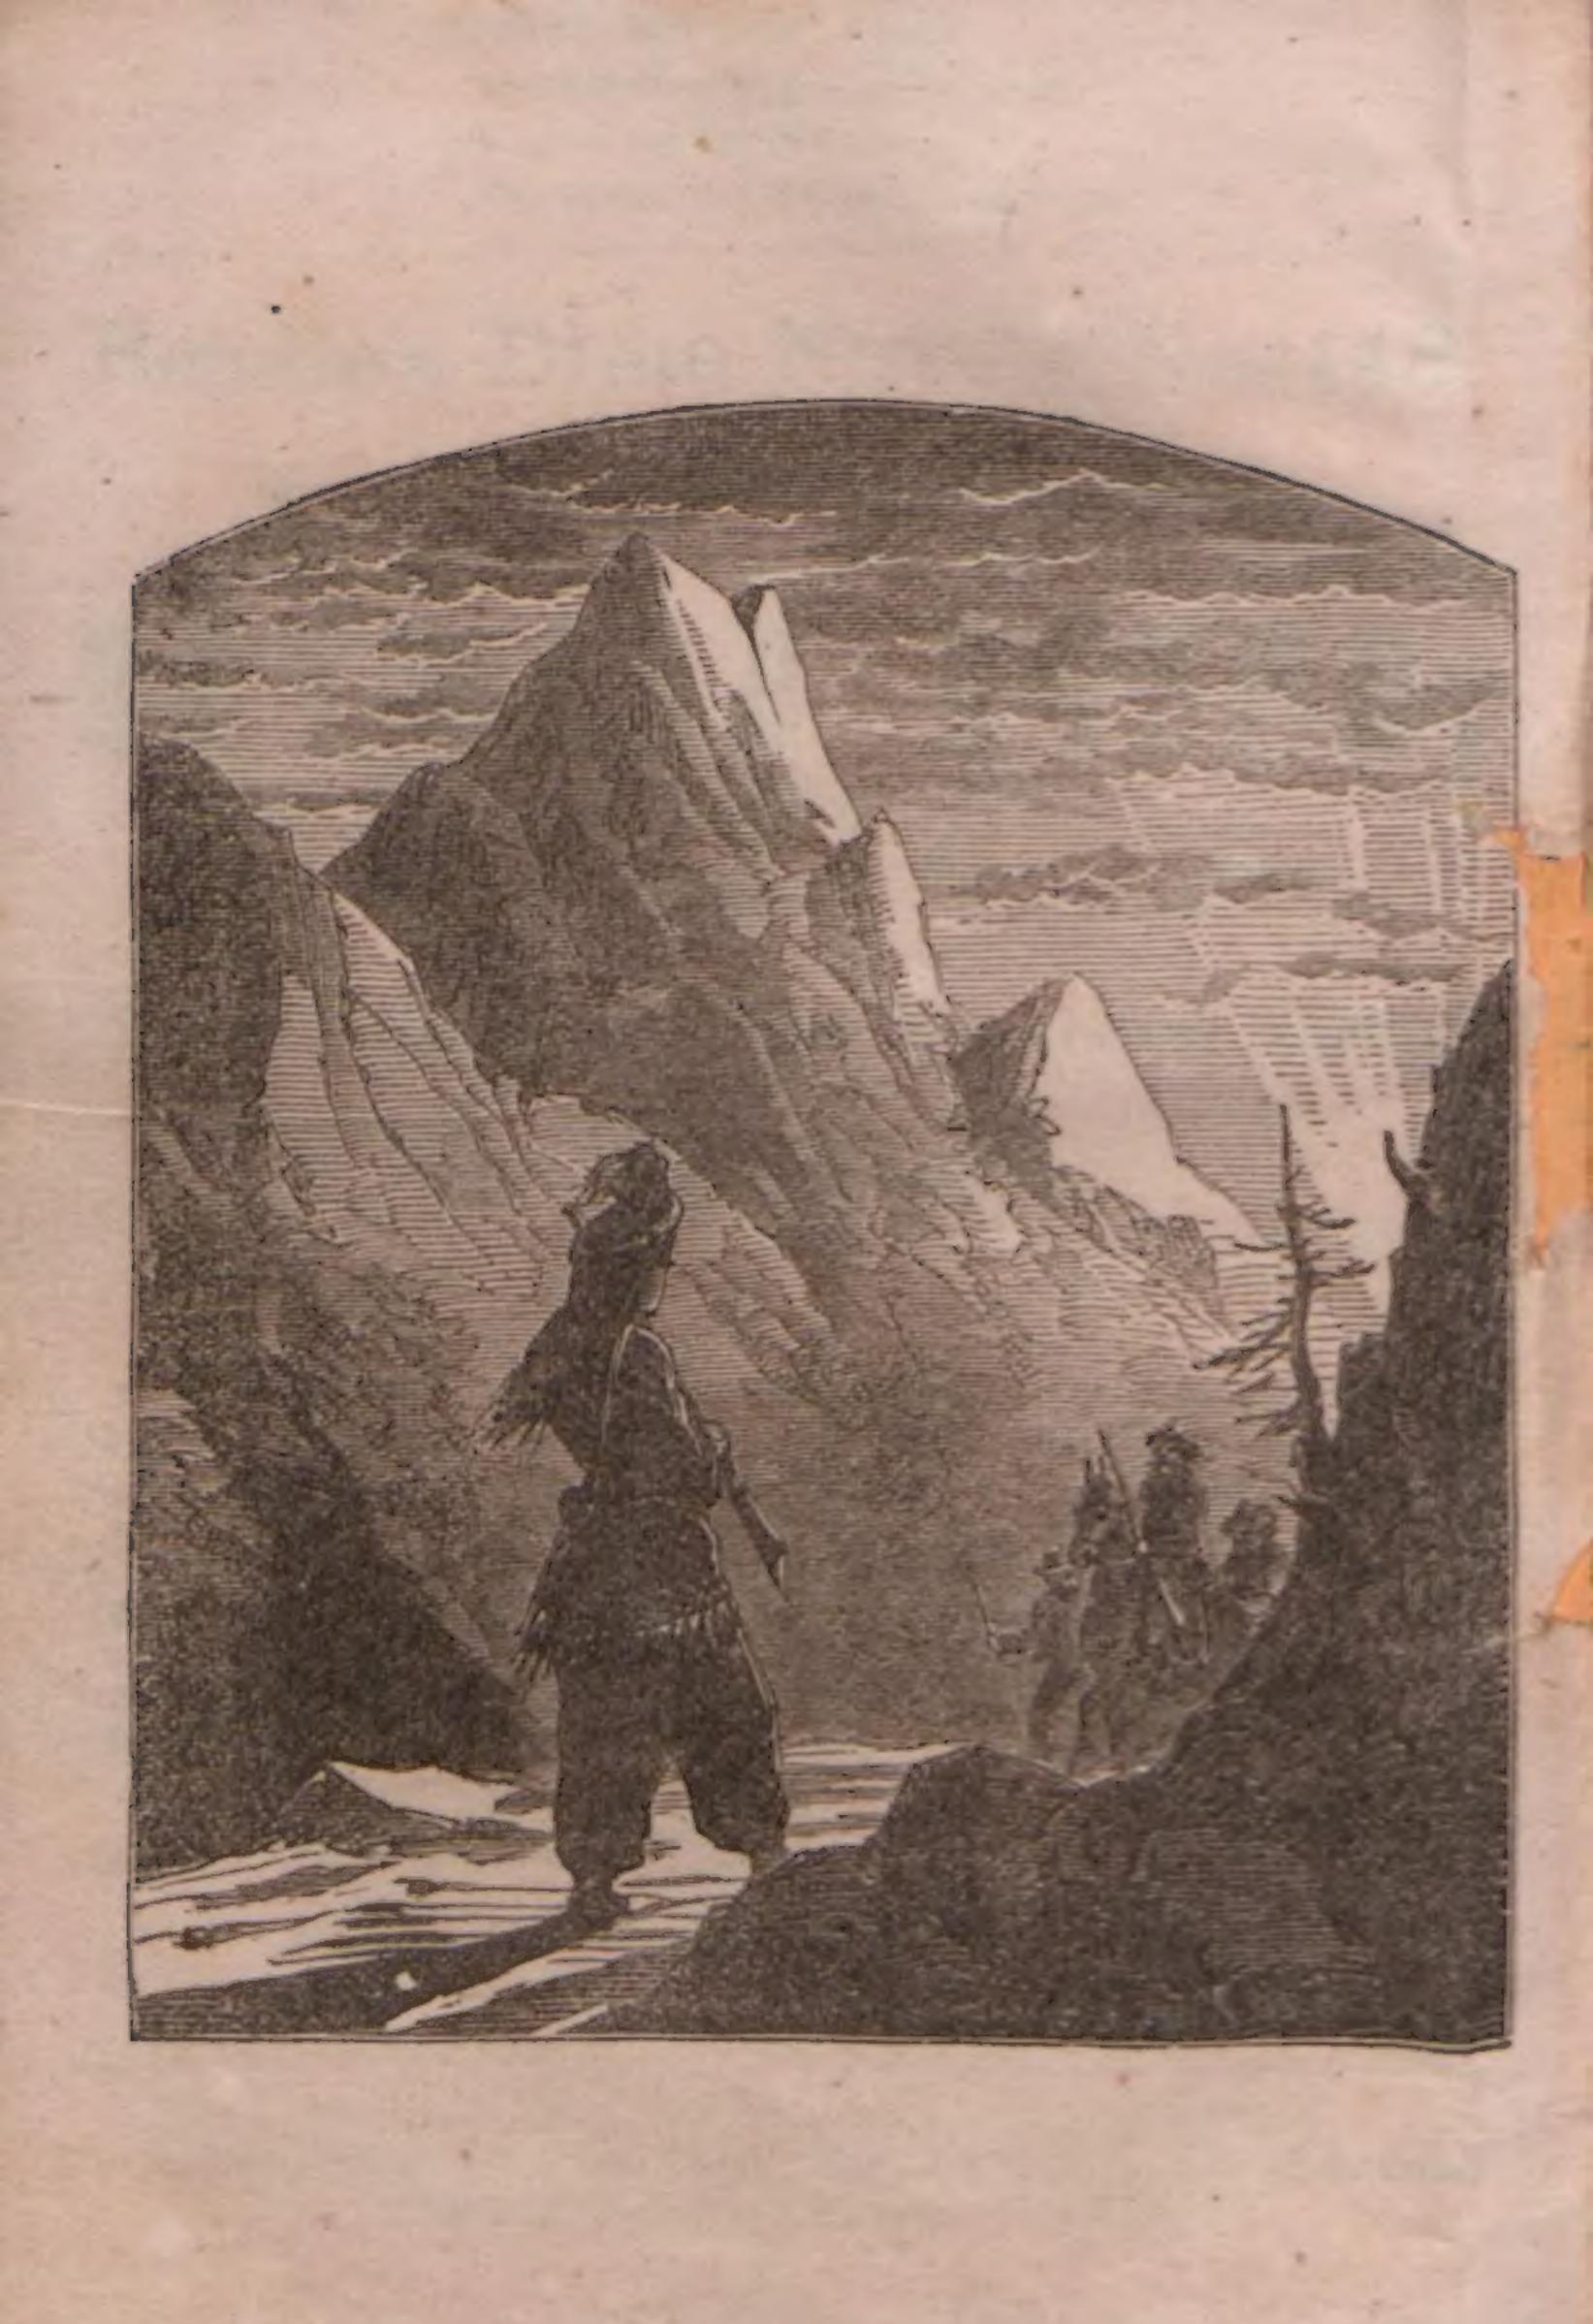

BEADLE AND COMPANY, General Dime Book Publishers, 98 William Street, New York.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1868, by

BEADLE AND COMPANY, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Unite States for the Southern District of New York.

MAID OF THE MOUNTAIN;

OR,

THE BROTHERS OF THE LEAGUE.

A ROMANCE OF THE SIERRAS.

Southern District of New York.

(200 1MF.)

BY W. J. HAMILTON,

AUTHOR OF "PEDDLER SPT," "SHAWNERS' FOB," "THE HUNCHBACK," ETC.

DEW YORK:

BEADLE AND COMPANY, PUBLISHERS,

98 WILLIAM STREET.

MAIN DIE HOUNTE.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1868, by

BEADLE AND COMPANY,

In the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

(No. 147.)

MOTHERN THE

MAID OF THE MOUNTAIN.

and, on the content, was a smooth-faced, handsom stripiling.

perfuge twenty years of age. Her nesseer smoons the band

CHAPTERI

THE CAMP.

THE setting sun just tinged the white crests of the sierras with floods of golden light. On every side rose the great peaks, towering crest above crest, drawing around one grand summit, which lifted its mighty head high above the others, like a great parent keeping silent guard over its children. Half-way up to the crest of this parent peak, a band of rangers had made a camp. These were the days in the history of California when lawlessness held complete rule, and crime was punished by the strong arms of the mountaineers. No sticklers for quibbles in law were they. Their rude minds caught at the crime and the punishment due for a great offense, and dealt that punishment with an unsparing hand. The lust for gold had drawn hither bands of men, too lazy to work, and lawless enough to wring from the sturdy toilers their hard-won "dust," by robbing, gambling and murder. These men, consorting in companies, or "leagues," had mountain retreats, inaccessible to those not acquainted with the clue, and from these they issued to their work of violence and blood.

This state of things at length brought forth, in self-defense, a race of resolute spirits, styled Regulators, who administered "frontier justice" to those who incurred its penalties.

The group camping up on the sierra were of that type; rough-looking, bearded fellows, smooth-faced striplings, and handsome young men, all well versed in border ways and wiles. The occasion which had called them together was this: Somewhere among the sierras there dwelt a band of robbers, whose suspected acts were such that the strong arm of frontier law was necessary to "wipe out" the villains. A number of miners and prospecters had been killed in the mountains, and robbed of their gold and stores. No one was spared to tell who did the work. The miners, therefore, in that section, had banded together as Regulators. The chosen captain was a Maine man, a muscular, hard-fisted six-footer, skilled in woodcraft, and fitted by nature for such a command. His lieutenant, on the contrary, was a smooth-faced, handsome stripling, perhaps twenty years of age. But not one among the band who did not approve their captain's choice. Thomas Elliot, though young in years, was no child in mountain-craft. He was a sure shot, a practiced runner, and possessed of rare courage. A better arbitrator than Tommy Elliot was not to be had. He settled all their differences, presided over their strange tribunals, which sentenced robbers or murderers, and dealt out unsparing justice to all. That smooth-faced boy had encountered dangers and difficulties bravely, at which many would have flinched; and yet, he had not been bred to such things. He was a New Yorker, whose bad luck in the East had stripped him of every penny, and who came to this wild region to make up for his losses.

The band had built fires, and were cooking their evening meal. It did not take long to provide it. The sierras swarmed with small game, and each miner had brought down a bird of some kind and broiled it, spitted on a stick or ramrod, over the fires. The captain and lieutenant sat together, and were talking in low tones of the work they had to do.

"I tell you," said Adam Lane, the captain, "if I find any of these scoundrels they will have but little time to say their prayers. I will have revenge for the death of Garry Burnet."

"Ah, poor lad," said Elliot. "He would not listen to reason, though I tried to make him wait until a party went to Sacramento. I told him the foot-hills were full of villains who would not hesitate to murder him for one-half the quantity of gold he had on his pack-mules. And now his bones whiten in the sierras."

"Yes. He was so happy because he was going home to the States, and could marry the girl he had loved so long. I am a rough fellow, Tommy, but it makes my heart very sad when I think of that girl, waiting in vain for the coming of one whose face she can never sec. If I knew the man that killed him, God have mercy on his soul!"

There was no irreverence in the speech. The mountaineer was in sober earnest.

"Will not the robbers retire when they know we are coming?" said Elliot.

"Our duty is plain. We must hunt them down, in any -case."

"The men will do their best. Few among them but has some injury to revenge, some murdered friend to remember. But, it puzzles me to think where the ruffians can hide. Sometimes I think they have gone through the pass and are on the other side of the range, laughing at us on this side. But we will hunt them down if it takes a dozen years."

"Right, Tommy; right. Murder is getting too much of a trade in California. If such a thing is possible, I will root out the name of robber from this district. But we do not know a man of the band."

"That is the trouble. If we could light on one, and then let him run loose, we might track him to his hole. But, it is up-hill work as it is."

"What luck have you had lately?" asked Lane.

"Not much," said Tommy, sadly. "It seems as if the hard luck which followed me in the States clings to me here. I don't believe there is a man in California who has worked harder than I to make a raise. I have dug when the rest were playing monté; I don't gamble, nor drink much, and yet I can't get ahead. My claim is always weak and my earth poor, while that of a man ten feet away is rich."

"Don't give up, Tommy."

"Give up? Not I! It isn't in the blood. I'll stay here until I either make a raise or lay my bones by the side of Garry's. I've too much at stake. To be sure, I have no girl waiting for me in the States, but I have an old father and mother to take care of. And if I can't make a raise for myself, I always manage to send them a few hundred every three months."

"Well, keep up good heart, young'un. You will strike something rich yet. These chaps that are unlucky at first always do that, sooner or later. Why, when I came out here first I was just like you. Every thing was against me. I had just no luck at all. I could not pay my bills, half the time; and, as for taking a hand at monté, or betting on a good hand, I was nowhere. But, after a while, my luck came, and I've got forty thousand in the bank at 'Frisco. Now, all I want is to lay out these red-handed ruffians, and then I will go home to the States."

"I don't think I shall ever leave California," said Elliot.

"I love it. This wild life I am leading suits me, and if we can only clear it of these vile Greasers, whom I suspect of being the instigators of these robberies, if not the men who do the work, the land will be a glorious one to dwell in."

"Do you think so, Tommy? Then you and I agree. There are some English and Americans in the band, but this cutthroat business is Greaser all over. No other people on earth would do these cold-blooded murders. Ever since Fremont conquered them they have hated us, and we must look for such acts as these. Ha! what is the matter there?"

A commotion had risen near one of the fires, and the officers rose and walked toward it. Two rangers had just come in, leading a Mexican as prisoner. He was a sullen-looking fellow, with the dark hair peculiar to his nation, and a malignant look in the depths of his black eyes.

"What have you there, Pardee?" asked the captain.

"Now look yer, capting," said the ranger, who was a Pike-county man, "this yer animal was a-crawlin' round the camp, and my nob and me lit on him purty heavy. Jest ask him whar he was gwine at, will yer?"

"You did well to bring him in," said the captain. "I thank you for your vigilance, Pardee."

The ranger fell back, with a gratified-look on his hard face.

Praise for good conduct is pleasing to any one.

"Now, sir," said Lane, turning savagely on the Mexican,

" what do you mean by sneaking around my camp?"

The fellow shook his head, and intimated that he did not understand what was said, though the malignant gleam of his eyes told a different story.

"Do you hear me?" cried Lane.

He shook his head again, in a violent manner.

"That's a dodge these fellows are all up to," said Elliot

"They never under and our language. That keeps them out of trottle. But that won't save him now. I know the mongrel language too well."

" You talk to him, Tommy."

Elliot took the fellow in hand.

"Now look at me," he said, in good Mexican, "and beware how you lie. What were you doing about this camp?"

"May not a man go where he likes in a free country?"

dem a le i the Mexican, in a sullen tone.

"By a little careful how you answer my questions," said Ellist, her brows beginning to lower. "You may get into treather. We are not the people to take incolence from men of you kind. Why were you sneaking about this camp?"

"And I say the hills are free to all," said the Mexican.
"You Americans always seek to do wrong to my race, to whom this land belongs by right, though you took it from us."

"I shall not repeat my question many times more, my fine follow. You would do a good thing for yourself if you answered at care. Let me tell you that we are Regulators."

"And what is a Regulator?" demanded the Mexican. "Is be not a roll is rund mark rer? Does he not take out men to be rule blue sky, and have or shoot them without trial?"

- "Yet it now. No person ever was hung by the Regularies without trial. Judge Lynch precides. You will learn all all at local it is done if you do not give a clear account of your presence here."
  - "But I have done no wrong," said the M xican.
  - "You can tell us how and why you came here, at least."

"I came up from the foot-hills."

- "Very likely. Now will you tell me what could possibly take a man almost into this region, at night, unless he had important work to do? You can not deceive us. You were sent here."
  - " I came on my own brainer,"

"What is that her in sty

"I will not tell you."

"You will be to far," said Tommy, who knew what would follow it the Mation refused to answer all proper questions. "I tell you that we must know your business here, and if you do not tell us, we will cut the truth out of your hide."

"Curse you," said the Mexican, "I will tell you all I can."

- "What is your name?"
- " Manuel de Castro."
- "A name that is familiar to my cars. What relative are you to that old fox who was Governor of California at the time of Fremont's conquest?"

" I am his nephew,"

"What takes you so far up the sierras at night?"

" Private business."

- "Answer fully and explicitly: what business?"
- "I have said I will not tell you, and I say again that I will keep my word. My business is my own, and no cas shall make me tell it."
- "I am sorry for you," said Elliot. "The boys are very hard on obstinate and suspicious characters. They will find means to make you speak."

"By heaven, I will not"

- "I think you will change your mind; and, he re I tell at them what you say, let me beg of you to recusilly your decision, and make up your mind to tell me what I wish to know. The punishments which the rangers deal out to carmies are fearful. I could not wish any man to endure them, even my worst foe."
- "You are trying to frighten me," said the Maxima, turning yellow with fear. "Ha! ha! The idea of trying that on a De Castro."

" Then you refule to speak?"

"Of course I do. I am not a coward."

"Very good," said lillist, turning to the rangers. "Bys, the fellow is obstinate. I think we had better try to personal him to speak."

A couple of stout men scized the Mexican. A lang lariate was fastened to his joined thumbs and burkled timitiv.

"What are you going to do?" cried De Cate. "Beware how you injure a man of my standing. I will never forget it."

"You have had your choice," replied Ellist. "We make to have our proper questions answered. I give you one more chance to speak."

"But what do you intend to do?"

" I intend to make you speak," replied Elliot.

"But I swear I will not."

"Just so," said Elliot. "Throw the lariat over that limb,

A low pine grew upon the mountain side, shooting out one strong limb farther than the rest. A ranger gathered up the losse ends of the lariat, like a lasso, and thang it over this limb, so that one end hung down on the other side. Four men then took hold of the rope, and pulled it tant. The Mexican was led under the tree, and the men pulled away showly until he role on t place, his weight bearing entirely on his thumbs. No one but a person who has endured this torture, or seen it inflicted on another, can have any idea of its terrible nature. At first it was nothing, and the Mexican only lended at his torturers with a grim smile. But a moment after his dark thee began to work strangely. Nothing earthly could bear the pain which now seemed to shoot along every herve, and to his very marrow. A hundred rods of fire seemed to run him throcch. His frame quivered with agony, which he could not much longer endure, and there stood those silent men, pilices as death, watching his motions closely. Every one of them seemed frozen suddenly into a statue-like calmness.

White terror showed itself in the face of the Mexican, but with heroic fortitude he kept down the cry which pain forced to his lips. At last it broke out in a storm of greans, shricks and carries, mingled in the strangest way. Now he threatend I them with his ven remoe in the fature. Then he prayed them, for the holy Virgin's sake, to free him from this dreadful punishment. His agony was dreadful. He cursed them in every conceivable way, and they stood there silent, holding the rope, never moving a muscle of their set faces. They were not new to this kind of work; but they knew that it was necessary. Great dreps of sweat gathered on the brow of the agonized man. His thumbs were stretched until they seems I about to be pulled from their sockets. The screams as I blue homics were redoubled.

- "I do not wish to prolong this," said Dille "Say that you will tell us what we alk, and I will be to a dean."
  - "Let me down then," was the sain a reply.

"Will you promise?":

"Yes; for the holy Virgin's sale, but the purchase any longer. I am dying."

Elliet made a gesture which the men under the They allowed the rope to slide through their hands, so that the victim's feet could rest upon the ground. But they did not take the strap from his thumbs.

"Now tell me why you were smalling all ut the camp."

" I won't !" said the Mexican.

"Run him up, boys," sail Elliot. "Data let his fort "Hold!" screamed the Mexican. "As the hair Virgin is over all, I will tell you every this ."

"See that you do. Hase away on him, bys; but the moment he hangs fire, up he good, mind."

"All rigid, lieutenant," said one of the real "We

" Now for it," said Ellist, in Spanish.

"I was sent here," said De Castro.

" Who sent you?".

"The Brothers of the Lague."

" Who are the Brothers of the Lag . ?"

They are the men yensek. There's reliable to a long made these passes a term reput the condition.

"By heaven, this is more time I in a l. Wing are they called the Brothers of the Learn 1

- "Because they were sworm to be a faith with each other, and to live for nothing but to rebeat hacking in."
- . .. Are you one of them?".

" No." ....

- "Then why did you objethen when they sait yes
- "Because I dared not do oth rule. They are the at hom, and I was their prisoner. They are that at I do I and I do I to the camp of the rangers, and that out their names, they would kill me. What could I do I'
  - "Where did you meet these men?"

He pointed up the mountain.

Say you so? Then they are very near. Men, take the straps from his thumbs and tie him, hand and foot. When this is done, anchor him to the pine. We shall have him escaping next, if we do not take care."

" Am I not to go now?" asked the Mexican.

"Go! Did you suppose us so verdant as that? I assure you that I do not intend to let you go at all. I do not believe this fine story of yours."

The look which De Castro gave him was fearful in its intensity of rage. Elliot laughed.

"Don't look at me in that savage way, Mr. Greaser. You annoy me. I am not used to such things."

"Curse you. The day will come when I will be revenged."

" All in good time," said Elliot, coolly.

- CHAPTER: II.

A RAW RECRUIT.

OBETING the orders of their superior, the men tied the prisoner firmly to the tree. By this time the moon was up, and several of the rangers laid down to rest, while a guard was posted about the camp. All at once they heard a stentorium voice, singing:

"Sound the loud timb rel o'er Bay; t's dark sea, Jehovah has traum; hed, his people are free!"

The singer was unmistakably of "Down East" origin. One of the guard stepped out and challenged.

"Who be yew?" demanded the nondescript. "What's yer name, anyhow?"

"I'll let daylight through you, if yer don't answer," replied the guard. "Who goes that?"

"Wal, perhaps ye think that's a civil question. Are yew a nat'ral fool, or can't you see it's me?" said Down East.

" And who is 'me?' " demanded the guard.

"Me? I'm Deacon Simpkins' son, Joshua, though they mostly call me Josh. Say, ain't that an all-fited het of yew? Dara me if it don't bok like a gineral trainin'. Come, den't look so fetched mad. Hain't I told ye who I be? Ain't that enough, I should like tew know? If ye don't stop plintin' that thing at my weekit, I shill feel called upon tew go throw yew like a lizard in an cel-trap. Don't, now, don't! It ain't a nice thing tew look at."

Laughing, the guard took the mule by the baldle, hel that into the light of the camp-fire, and disclosed to the action led gaze of the rangers as ludierous a figure as is often a ch. A long, lean Yankee, mounted on a mule of such diminutive stature that the heeks of the rider, in the words of D. racy Rooney of the rangers, "tickled the ground." The Yankee had one of those sallow, demure faces, seen in persons of his class, in which natural cunning seemed to have a tuste with smetimonious gravity. In one hand he held a long switch, with which he had been belaboring the mule, and in the other a carpet-bag, suited in size to the mule, which did not seem capable of helding any thing larger than a peth-t-l.... literchief. His clothes were old, and evidently has been the propcrty of a small man, for the bottoms of the transmis and to reach his knees, and so med in a fair way to are million the task. He had no arms whatever, and sat his railed as mule with a solemn face, bowing gravely to the grimming rungers, who began to gather round.

down." I to said. "This looks like hum. I gress I'll git

He did so, swinging one leg over the lead of the main, and stood there, the picture of native impalance and verdancy.

"Where did you come from?" demanded Lane. "It weems to me that we are fated to be bothered to hight."

"Whar did I cum from?" said the Yankee. "Gods, don't yew know? Ido!"

" Out with it, I say. Where did you come from?"

"Wal, don't be so cholicky about it; I'm fi in Varmount, I guess. Tain't a very large State, but it's heavy on cuttle. Say, stranger, don't yew want to swap juck-halves?"

" What?" ... ...

- "I asked if yew didn't want tew swap jack-knives. Yew've got an all-fired poory pig-sticker than, I calculate. That than would make a man poory sick if it got intew his gizzard, wouldn't it?"
- "You don't answer my question," said Lane, repressing a smile.
- "Diln't I? Oh, gosh! What a mighty nice gun yew've got thar, stranger. How will yew dicker for it? I'll sell yew this mule. He ain't very poety tew look at, and he ain't very big, but he's the gamest little critter ever walked on four less."

"Do you happen to know who we are?"

- "No, I don't, stranger; and yew don't seem none tew ready tew tell me, neither. Darn it, I told my name right cont. I'm Josh Simpkins, and I live down tew Bennington when I'm tew hum. What's your name? or have ye swapped it of?"
- "You are the coolest specimen I ever met, even in New Hagland," said Lane. "How did you come here?"

"On a mule. Now jest you look at that mule, and-"

- "Dry up!" shouted Lane, thoroughly exasperated, " or I'll brock your head. I want you to tell me what you are wandring about the sierras at this time of night for?"
  - " Ain't maz?, be yew, captain?"

Lane gritted his teeth.

- "'Crie, if ye are, I don't know what I've done tow make yew mad. Darn it all I I was ridin' along on my male not sayin' nothin' tew nobody, and that darn fool with the gun hard I me up here. Now, just let nie talk tew yew, capitin, dew, and I'll tell yew how it happened."
  - "Talk! I should be pleased to know if you have not been talking all the time."

- I wanted tew tell yew how I came here. Yew see, I am a Varmount man myself. I bein't been very happy in this life, on account of Sary Ann. Yew don't know Sary Ann? Wal, yew lose by it, for I may say she is a very peccoliar formule. She's sourt, I tell yew, but she's got tew much gilt, and I—"
  - "My good friend," said Lane, in despair. "Will you have the goodness to tell me what Sary Ann can possibly have to do with your being here?"

"Don't you know? Wal, wasn't I a-tellin' ye? Darn it, man, yew fly off the handle tew easy, I think. Stan is tew reason, a man can't tell every thing in a minnit. Yew jest keep cool and I'll tell yew all about it. Yew see, Sary Ann and me we lived in Varmount. Things was pesky high, and we had hard scratching tew git along; and all the time Sary Ann was a-lecturin' me. She called me a poor-sperited critter, and said I hadn't the will nor the brains to support my family."

Here Lane gave a savage look at Elliot, who was langle-ing.

"Wal," continued Simpkins, "she riled me so that one day I said tew her:

"'If yew don't quit pesterin' me, darned ef I don't go to Californy.'

" Sez she, 'Yew hain't got the sperrit.'

"And with that I picked up my traps and started for San Francisco."

"All right," said Lane, hurrically. "We've got so far. Don't go back to the States till you have fall-land your yarm. It's longer than a country road."

"I ain't a-goin' back yit," said Simpkins. "My i he is tow have some money before I ever see Varmount agia. Wal, when I got to San Francisco it was the dark lest place yow ever did see in all your days. I've been in a hamp of places, but I never see'd nothin' to beat it. There's Chimanen there, the queerest critters! And the China women is was than the men. They called me John. Now, John ain't my name. I told one woman politely my name wa'n't John. But, she wouldn't mind me. She kept sayin':

" Me sabby yew weally good, John."

16 Now, can yew tell me what she meant?"

smile.

" Then that kind o' r'iled me up, and I sail:

ain't the man yew took me for.'

"But, she wouldn't fisten, an' a lot of 'em got round u.e, men and women, and dam my buttons if the men didn't want tew dev my washin'?"

"I suppose you make a contract for that by the year," said

Lane, gluncing at the little carpet-bug.

"Yew git out! It's no sech thing. Dil yew ever see sech etarnal outlandish critters as them Chinamen? They've got tails hen in' down their backs as long as my arm. I never did see sech critters. I ran away from 'em at last."

The idea of an innocent Yankee beset by a crowd of Chinamen and women tickled the captain immensely, and he berst into a hearty laugh, which was echoed by the men. As there seemed no possibility of interrupting the interminable tale of the new-comer, the listeners composed thems does to hear it with as good grace as possible.

"I went straight up tow a man that looked as if he was from the States, and asked him of he knew me. He didn't, sure enough, and then I told him I was from the States, and that I wanted him tow tell me what they went tow dig gold. He seemed as nice a man as yew ever see in all your life. I kinder cottoned to him in a minuit—he was so smooth and oily-like, jest as of butter wouldn't melt in his mouth.

"Gold?' sez he.

"'Yes,' sez I. 'Whar will I find it? I want tow dig some to-day, and maybe in a week I can git all I want, and go home tow Sary Ann.'

""Quite night,' sez he. 'Thus it is. To-day we flourish, to-morrow we are cut down like the grass that peri heth and dryeth up.'

I know'd he was a good man as soon as he said that, and I asked him what media'-h'us he preached in. He told me he was a missionary to the Tangaboo Island, and that he did not tare for filthy lucre, and had a mine tew sell. Or, rather, he wanted me tew give fifty dollars tow the Tangaboo mission, and he'd give me the mine. I thought I couldn't git a letter chance, so I told him tew go ahead and show his mine, and if I liked it, I'd buy it. So he took me tew a place what that was a long building, like a barn, with a railin'all round it, and high steps goin' up in front.

. " What house is that?' sez I.

"That,' sez he, 'is the "Ald Adobe," and this big place yew see here is my mine. Now, dew yew want ten t-uy ?'

"I couldn't see my way clear to any thing better than that, and I calculated that I cu'd cut this big mine up intew little ones and sell it tew miners. So I hauled out fifty dollars and giv' it tew him."

" Yew will want a shovel,' he sez.

"'Course I will,' sez I.

"'All right,' sez he. 'Give me ten dellars and I'll go and git yew a shovel.'

" Ten dollars l' sez L

" 'Yes,' sez he, kind o' smilin'. ' Ten d liars.'

"I looked kind o' wild at him, and giv' him the maney.

" Yew will want a pick-ax,' sez he. 'Very good. I'll git it for yew. Ten dollars more.'

"I kinder huffel a little at this, for I dich't like the idea of givin' so much for a pickax, but he told me it was the regilar price and I couldn't git tools as cheap as he could, anyhow. So I let him have it and off he went. He can back perty soon with a pickax and shovel, and told me that the Tangaboo mission would present me a note of thanks, and make me a life member. Then he went away, and I to he up my shovel and began tew work. I noticed that there was I to of boys cam round the minnit I began tow dig, and I had will at me, but I didn't mind'em. I dag away for be at half an hour, and a good many fellers began tew cam up and look at me. Bimeby, one of 'em cam up and techel me on the shoulder, and so z he:

" 'What'n thunder ar' yew a-dewin?'

"I didn't see that he had any call to interfere, so I told him I calculated that wa'n't none of his business, and I'd thank him tow git off my land.

" Your land! he sez. 'Dew yew call this your land?'

" Yew'd better believe it,' sez I.

"And with that he bust out a laffln', and went and said suthin' tew the others, and they laffed as bord as he did. I dug away, but it made me bilin' made tow see 'em a-tram; lia' on my sile in that way. The ground was posty hard any way, and I hed tow dig and scrupe tow git a little. I know that was a good sign, and I worked away, while they stood halln'. Bimeby a feller he cum up, and sez he:

" Earth pooty hard, ain't it?"

" Yaas' sez I.

yew? ... Posty healthy piece of land, tew. Bought it, didn't

" I reckon I did, sez I.

" Struck anythin' rich git?' sez he.

character.'. I ain't struck anybody. I ain't a fitin'

"I thought he was tryin' tew her me say I'd struck some one, so that he c'ud take the law on me. But, he c'udn't ketch me that way.

"Po ty soon a man in a blue coat, with a star on his lesssum, which I took to be of sum great fam'ly, cum up and speaks kind o' gruff, and asks me what I was dewin'? That made me mad, and I told 'em all tew git off my land, or I'd take the law of 'em.

"' Your land! You fool, this is the Plaza, and belongs to "'No it don't,' sez I. 'It ain't no more a plaza than I am. Plaza be darned! I bought it this mornin'.'

" Borght it! Who from? sez he.

mad as I could be at his confounded nonsense—the Lord forgive me for swiarin'—' and I paid him fifty dollars in good money for it, for the Tangaboo Missionary fund.'

your pickax and shovel and go. Yew are getting up a crowd here. We shall have a riot the first thing yew know."

" I won't go,' sez L

"Yew won't? s z he. 'Then I'll make yew.'

with bors on the windows—a hotel, I guess, for I asked him went place it was, and he sail, 'The Cressbar Hotel.' But he'd just as live lie as not, and likely that wa'n't the name. Wal, he give me a room to sleep in, and it wa'n't no great shakes of a room n ither; and in the mornin' cum and to k the out and brought me before an old fell r in species, who was be me pay ten dollars for defacin' public property, as he called it. And when I telled back and told him I'd be duraed if I'd pay it, he made me pay five mere for that.

"'Wal,' sez I, 'mebbe this is what you call a free country, but I'll be darned if it looks so tew me."

"And then the feller in the blue cost took me out and tell me to go about my business. I talked with some fill is about it, and they told me that the old feller was right, and that the place what I was dirgin' belonged tow the city, and the filler that sold it to me was a liar and close, and that he hadn't no right tow sold it tow me at all. But, one of 'em, a right smart lookin' chap he was tow, sex tow me that their wa'n't no gold anywhat near San Prancisco, and that I must go out intow the Gulch country and the foot-hills of the sterras. And he sold me a map of the country, so that I'd know my way, and only charged me ten dollars."

"Let me see your map," sail Lune.

The fellow produced a piece of paper, on which some waz had drawn with a pen a chart crossed by lines in various directions, which looked as much like a map as the Yankee did like a courtier.

- "I reckon that ain't no trouble with that," said he.
- "Not at all," said Lane, dryly. "So you gave ten dellars for this?"
  - " Yes, I dil."
  - " Was it a good guile?"
- "I don't think I rightly un bratan! the dir clima," said the Yankee. "Any way, I diln't git all at very well, and stumble! on this camp by accident."
  - "Would you like to stay here to night?"
- "As I ain't got no better place tew stay, I den't mind of I dew."
  - " Very well. Are you hungry?"
- horse." I could eat a saw-

The captain conducted him to one of the fires, and gave him the remains of the supper which was in the dishes as they had left it. He are greedily, pronounced himself satisfied, and laid down to rest, with the little carp that under his head. A hush fell upon the camp, and the rangers slept in peace.

CHAPTER III.

a free we car y a

HARLY in the merning Elliot called his men. They sprang up, retreshed by the last night's shanb r, and prepared for their murch. By all they could learn, they must be near the Land of the robbers who had so long made these mountain sides a shambles. The Regulators, as they made their preparations, east any thing but bying glances at the Mexican hound to the tree. He by there sullenly enough, his head Stack on his breast, and his discolored and swollen thumbs lying where he could see them and nurse his anger against the men who had tortured him almost beyond endurance. His grim face, lit by the rising sun, showed anary lines at every point. The Mexican boot is of that teraper which Legs a feud until the object of its hate is under the selferever. The rangers could see that whenever the prisoner rais d his head, a savage glance fell upon Tom Elliot, as the ment algor to blame for his degree and panishment. There was trouble in the look, too. He flared the R gulaters might regent the farful punithment of the previous night, and he know that, in the present condition of his hands, he could

Dr Cutro, loosened his bonds that he might cat, and stood by him with pistols ready, so that, in case of an attempt to escape, he might shoot him down. The Mexican ate in sublin as a might shoot him down. The Mexican ate in sublin as a circly as before, and went back to his own meal. When all had finished, two of the band unbound the cords upon the captive's legs and hel him before the officers, who were armed for the march.

"A single que then, Sener De Castro," said Tom Ellist.
"Which do you preser—to guide us to the place where the erebites are hidden, or end are the punishment of last night until you are ready to do it?"

- "I prefer the first. Why should I not guile you there? They are not my friends. True, I have been among them, but was forced to it."
  - "Then you will guide us?"
  - "Si, señor."
- "I am glad you agree so readily. I assure you, Softer De Castro, that it was painful to us to be forced to punish you as we did last night; but you must consider that our men are being murdered every day, and that we have not been able to find the murderers. Under these circumstances, we must resort to any and every means to find this den of thieves."

De Castro said not a word, but his eyes blazed. It was cary to see that, though he yielded to superior ferce, he still nursed his hatred of the rangers, and of Educt especially.

- "You will march with us," said the young man, "and had us by the shortest route to the lair of these mountain pirates. Who is their leader?"
  - ." An American."
  - "What is Lis name?"
  - " Paul Merton."
- "He bears a good American name for one who gives up his whole life to the murder of his countrymen. What is he like?"
- "He is tall," said the Mexican, "with dark hair and eyes, and a frame as powerful as that of the captain of this hand. In a close encounter he would be more than a match is rhim. His strength is wonderful. I saw him solze a powerful man by the waist, and raise him over his head like a father. The man weighted one hundred and sixty pour is. You have some idea from this of the strength of the person you will have to contend with."
- "He is brave beyond thought, and his canning is something wonderful. It is impossible to deceive him. He has harmted in a dezen places in these mountains, and shifts them who never there is danger of being discovered. His spins are every where, and he has agents in every camp and value. At this time, perhaps, one of your own men, whom you treat most, is his paid spy."

"It is impossible."

- "By no means. I do not say that it is so; but it is strange if it is not."
  - "What is the number of men in the band?"
- "It varies. At times, these agents of whom I speak are with him. When they all meet, as they sometimes do, they number one hundred men. But, at most times there are not more than forty in the band. When I left them there was just that number."

"They are strong.".

"You are right. I think you will be in the condition of the man of whom you have heard, who went for wool and came home shorn. You are not strong enough for them.

They will beat you."

"But, you must make allowance for the fact that my fellows fight in a just cause, while these assarsins are under the ban of the law, of which we are the administrators. We have trothers, friends, and fathers to avenge. We have a lamited dreadful deeds to remember. Do not for a moment dream that we shall be slack in our duty to California and the memory of our lost friends."

The Mexican sail no more, but led the way, at a quick pace up the slopes of the sierras. Evidently he knew the path well, and a smile curled the lip of Elliot as he saw him classe the case st roads and avoid all obstructions which a stranger to the route would have fallen upon unconsciously. It must not be supposed that the rangers allowed the man to get much in advance; four of them had orders to keep their eyes upon him, and shoot him down if he attempted to escape. But, he appeared to have no such thoughts, and displayed such zeal that the rangers begun to think better of him, though Californians and Texans have an utter detectation of the "Greisers," and hate them as only men can hate who have just cause.

The Mexican kept on his course through the rugged pases. Belind him came the rangers, strangling on in Indian file, for the passes would allow no other formation. They were marching in this shape when the head of the line emerged from the pass, and appeared in one of those beautiful valleys often found in mountain regions, walled in by mountains on every hand. There could not have been in rettlen three acres of bottom land in the vale, and this was Carpetel with soft green grass, contrasting strangely with the rate, i, gray peaks which rose on every side.

It was one of those silvan spots which nature soms to delight in producing and placing amile savage scan ry, have the coases of the desert, more beautiful for the contrast. On the west of this valley a stream rolled down a deep ravial, and plunged from the rolks in a sheet sixty flet in hight. From the base of the cliff the little stream crossed the valley, and escaped through one of the passes on the other side. Exclusions of surprise class of the lips of the range is, who had never visited this lovely spot. I the lips of the range is, who had

"Siy, cap.," said one of the band, "we camp here, dan't

"Yes, Bunger; any thing to please the boys. Tenany, I don't won ler that you say you would like to live always in California. There is no such a party as this anywhere in the world. Ask that fellow how far we are from the hands of these robbers." Ask that fellow how far we are from the hands of Elliot repeated the question.

"It is two miles away," replied De Castro. "Shall we go on now?"

"No," said the captain; "we camp. Tell him s., Tommy; and have one of the hoys the him up again. I we no notion of having any one of that him the last rank have strapped him up by the thember. Look out I raim, Tommy. He bears you no good will, mind you."

"I don't suppose he des, really," said Hallet, he chief. "But, I am foolish enough not to care any thing a set that.

I never was attail of a Green ryet."

vengeful on es, every man of them, and think no more of patting a knife into a man than I do of eating my equipart and when you get such a fallow down on you, your street a suit is to shoot him through the heal if he gives you the shadow of an exercise. Bully Mason has get his full back in and I pity the Mexican if he ever draws a back on him. What shall we do with our Yankee?"

"I don't know. The fool will not be on the of talking care of hims if, and the Pistes will have his scalp in two days if lest alend. The only way is to take him along with us. What is he going to do with that make?"

Simplifies was seen at this moment leading up by the bridle the mode which he had ridden to the camp, turning upon the beast now and then to bestow a word of caution, much effect the manner of the clown in the circus. The animal was refractery. He plunged, kicked, reared, and otherwise gave evidence of the possession of an unquiet mind. Yielding at last to the mineasured abuse which the Yankee heaped upon him, the mule was browtht to a stand a few paces from the cilcurs, who were astenished by this hall from the Yankee:

"Say, yew faller in the white hat!"

This was all bessel to Ediot.

- " What do you want?" deman le l the lieutement.
- " Want goo," was the answer.
- "What do you want of me?" said Tommy, good-mituredly,
  - " Wal, I wanted tew know who owns this yer land."
  - " The Government."
  - "Same as the city of San Prancisco owns my mine?"
  - "You in an the Place."
- "You Dila't I buy it and pay for it in good money? It's enough town make a good Can han swar tow hour a man take as you down Wal, sipose a man was tew take up this land, how long could be hold it?"
  - "Until the lightes took his sculp," replied Ellist.

"General Lord! Yew don't mean to tell a filler that there's any L.j ...s r . in l here?"

To your like the Comes into the latter than I costs.

They are thicker than I costs.

They are thicker than I could be a latter we would have had a fact. But Samp, the Phile Chief, says he is going to have the next man who comes into the latter had a latter.

"(), I, d! Gami the Year, "Now A it that that "(), () ... a p r main , ... a part that I
"(), the hear highest I means in I to it only hand when but we all have not cannot be in that Injust we all be after me, sure. But, Lordy! she wouldn't hear a word. I might as well have talked to the saw-mill. Oh, darn my buttons, I wish I had staid tew hum. But, Sary Ann is so all-fired queer that a man can't have his own way, never."

"You would have done better to keep cut of the Indian country, Mr. Simpkins. It isn't the place for Yankous. The savages are unusually hungry this year, and they say that a good smart Yankee roast makes their hearts strong. I should think it might, but am not sure. Who is that Indian on the mountain?"

"Injun? Whar? I don't see any," cried the Yankee, staring about him in dismay. "Oh, I'm as seared! I wish I was back in Varmount. 'Now I lay me down tow sleep, I pray the—' Whar's that Injun?"

"I guess it was the rock that I saw," replied Tommy, with a laugh. "It looks like it now. But, you not be afraid of Burnt Stump while you stay with us. We will take care of you.".

"Say, Mister, don't you want to swap knives?" quoth Josh.

The promise of protection had set his mind at rest instantly, and he was his old scheming self again, ong r for a trade.

"No, I don't know that I want to trade with you," said Tommy.

"I'm an awful hand at a dicker," said Simplified. "Yew may go your pile on that. I've got a halfe here. Train, dew. 'Unsight, unseen.'"

"No, thank you," replied Ellist. "I'm not in a low."

"What dew yew say tow beyin' this mais?" print I Simplins. "I guess yew won't git a letter trade normal. Buy him; he's little, but he's get a powerful sight of the trew grit in him. Why, that there make only wants trading and he'd make the greatest male on record—that's what half do; it's in him. Now, yew boy him; yew to the normal water in this risin' genius. Don't be builded a later to the him cheap—fifty dollars."

"What do I want of the brute, man ?" said Ellist. "Don't bother me."

"Ain't I a-talkin' for your good? Cum; let's have a lil. I'm, bound tew sell that mule somehow. Jest give us a list. Start her, any way. Say fifty dollars."

"I tell you I don't want your manle, man," said Elliot, good-naturedly. "It would be of no use to me."

"Yew git cout; I know better. That's a useful animile; he kin carry twice his weight. He don't bek hefty, but he is. Cum; don't hang fire. Say what yew'll give."

" I don't want him," replied Elliot.

"Wal, yew are the wust man tow trade with I ever see. But, if yew won't trade, yew won't, so than's an end of the matter. I guess I'll go and talk tew the men. They'll trade,

I guess."

He went away, dragging his reluctant steed by the bridle, and looking daggers at the man who would not trade. He was soon engaged in conversation with his former capter, who was listening, open-mouthed, to his veracious account of the performances of that wenderful mule. By his report, his like for en brance, sagacity, speed, and all the qualities which go to make up a good mule, had never been seen. The unapproachable check with which he told his stry was too much for the unwary rangers, and they looked checky at the mule, trying to discover where his remarkable powers were concealed. Before half an hour had passed, the Vermonter had effected a sale, for the sum of sixty dollars, which he buttoned securely in his pocket. This done, he felt at case. He had effected a trade; he had done a good deed in doing a fellow-man.

CHAPTER IV.

THE WONDING OF THE VALLEY.

Ir was pat nown by when the rangers entered the valley and pitched their camp upon the lavel ground be ide the running stream. The orders of the camp were importive. There was to be no title duchang I on any pretext, for the hount of the robbers was said to be close at hand. The Mexican declared that it would not do to alvance until later in the afternoon, because so many of the reblers were out on the hills throughout the day, and would be apt to give the alarm. They yi leded quiet i this jain ment, which seemel good, and waited. While the band plop ded since thing to cat, the captain and ball to to a on an experient trip through the valley. The mining excitement at tals time was at its hight, and as they pased along the Bull stream, Lane stooped and scraped up a handful of sand from the bettem, and rubbed it with his ther rate see if he could fel any particles of gold. Sail It I that he did be want I the han ital in the river, picked out the course gravel, h. we at the sand, and saw quite a nomal refiner part of the precious metal in the pain of his hand. But the cutta dill not betray any particular richness, and he teres i the shining " dust" away.

"Is it rich?" sail Hill t.

"Not very," said the captain; "but in my cpinion the place is not the oil where there is a rich day sell, if we certified only strike it."

While he spoke, Illist was kicking at som this which protruded from the earth at his test. A man are he far I it came out upon the turi, and both saw what it was—the thigh-bone of a man! A tarial of awar ranth: what is the of the young officer. There was sentially solding in the sight of that whitehed bone. Who was hely If we came he to die? Was he one of those mand a went it is where it visited the Golden State, and had falled yiether to stary at a ? Who could tell? A little further on the year and the rest of the skeleton,

" A grinning, glastly, and horrible thing," lying with its white the true I up to the south relay, with a rusty ritle lying by its sale. Lall the ship the ship in with his feet, and sale the rattled within the frame. He turn littorer, and a late with the litter and the ribs.

this. It is the work of a white man."

"Yer are right, Captain Law; a wait run in it in it in We'll loave the past tallow water had a qual talled to go back we will send some of the men to bury it. No Christian man would have left the body so long exposed to the sun. Come on."

Their course took them by the side of the stream, which flowed on as tranquilly as though no murder had been done upon its banks. Their path was stopped at last by the mountains, through which the stream ran by a mere rift in the recky wall. They turned back, and, skirting the base of the mountains, walked toward the camp. All at once a deep groan, which seemed to come from the bowels of the earth, rose to their startled cars. Elliot held up his hand, and Lane stopped. The groan was repeated.

"Who is that?" cried Elliot.

"Whoever you are," replied the owner of the voice, "ask no questions, but go back as you came. Put miles and miles between you and this place, whitened as it is with dead men's bones."

"Where are you?" said Lane. "Show yourself, or by the heavens ab we our heads, the rangers shall find you out."

A hollow laugh was the reply, and the monotonous veice went on:

"Who can tell the secrets of the sierras? Who can make way into its depths but those who know the chee? I speak to you from the earth, and I speak as one having knowledge. Be warmed in time. You can not tell the fate in store for you. A dismal death awaits all who enter this valley, and will not take warning from what they see and hear. It is a Golgotha. Do not remain. Set your faces westward, and go back whence you came."

Lane looked at Ellist in astoni hment, and for a moment his stout frame quivered like an a pend of. But it was over in an instant. He was not the man to lose his courage. He was simply shocked. Recovering his companie, he cried out:

"Of what do you warn us?"

&quot;Can out and fare ps?"

&quot;I do not come to that purpose," replied the shear which which which come to year if you remain in Marderer's Callon"

- " Of danger.".
- " Of what kind?"
- "Danger unto death. When you lie down at night, you do so not knowing that you will ever see the dewning. Your bones will whiten with those which you saw to day."

"I do not fear that," said Lane.

- "False! You tremble now; and yet you have a brave heart. Many eyes have been on you since you left the mines with your band, Adam Lane. Everything you have done has been known to the men you so k, alm st as a mas done. Take warning from me, who speak for your good, and who know what is said to be the truth. There is gold en ugh in the hills below without seeking it here."
  - " We do not seek gold," replied Lane.
  - " What then?"
  - "Revenge."
    - " For what?"
- "For the death of the men who have been our friends for years, and who fell victims to the infernal rapacity of the bloody band infecting these mountains."
  - "You can not avenge them."
    - "We can try."
    - "You will lose your own lives."
    - "We have taken the risk."
- "Turn your eyes upon the sun. It is a beautiful day. The very hills are bathed in glory. The livit givens upon the river. Most men who love beautiful talors we all with to live, to enjoy such a world as this. And yet yet much live danger which will surely end family to meet, if not all your party."
- "I have brave men under me, who do hat flar death," re-
- "Who are you that warm us?" said Illiet, specific for the first time.
  - " You can not know," sail the vie.
  - "Then we do not believe yea," s.i.! Illi t.
- "As you will," said the value, "W. at I have said I have said. Be warned in time, and forward."

Both these men were brave. They had a final dad the jar in a hundred ways, but never, in all their experience, had they encountered any thing like this. They faced a wall of solid rock, whence the voice came which warned them. There was no clue. In spite of their strong hearts, they recolled from that dreadful place.

"You begin to feel that I speak the truth," said the voice, "Send for your men. Let them search for me and see what they find. I repeat, the secrets of the sierras are many and "I begin to think so," muttered the captain. "But, we will take you at your word. Sound your bugle, Tommy. Not too loud."

Eiliot lifted a small bugle which he always carried to recall his men when he needed them, and sounled it a certain number of times. The rangers rose in a body; a detachment of ten of them ran toward the officers. Among the rest came Josh, eager to have a hand in any thing new. His long legs took him over the ground with a speed that rivated that of all others.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "What'n thunder male them fellers run? What did yew toot on that little horn for? What'll ye take for it? Trade for a knift, eh?"

Five questions in one sentence, and an offer to trade at such a moment was too much for the captain.

... "You fool!" said Lane.

"Oh, don't git mad now, capting," returned Josh. "I didn't speak tew yew. I asked the young feller how he'd trade for the little horn. I'd like tew toot on it myself. I think I could dew it. I used tew blow on a horn for the cows, tew hum. Don't yew want to hire a tooter? Save your own wind, yew know. I'll work low."

The captain pushed him roughly asi le just as the men came up. He issued his orders with flace vellemenes.

"Up these recks, boys, and see if you can find any one controlled there. It is impossible for the fellow to evape. Search every corner. He must be there. I'm with you."

They so run oup the rocks together. As they did so, an uncarthly laurh seemed to issue from the soil b neath their feet—a dismal sound, at which the men paused in blank distinay and looked downward. John Simpkins had followed them part way up, but, hearing that senal, he haped down and souttled away a convenient distance from the rocks.

"Gosh all fish-hooks!" he cried. "What was that?"

"Search, men, search!" cried H.Hot, cheerfully. "The fellow is concealed somewhere near at hand."

"I'll swear that laugh came from under my feet," said one of the men.

"All imagination, Taylor. Look sharp. We shall have him bolting out pretty soon."

The laugh was repeated, sounding more dismal than ever.

The Regulators be ran to look terrificit, and cast anxious glances toward their captain. The scarch was fruitless, and the men descended the rocks willingly enough, for their investigations had been accompanied by grooms and laughter throughout. Like all backwood and nother were superstitious. They had heard the will Indian legen is, and believed them. Certainly, what they had be red and seen was enough to puzzle minds more evenly balanced than their own. They went back to the camp, and the captain and Elliot remained near the rocks. Josh Simpkins linguised not far away.

" How do you expinin this?" said Elli th

"Now look you, Tommy Elli t," said Lane, sclemaly, "I have been bred to despise all these late n w-fangle? spiritual manifestations; but, I give you my word, that I begin to feel that spirits of the dead hover here is uts. A voice is heard coming out of the solid right, warning us away. We search everywhere and can find not sky. I am pazzi it."

"So be I," said Josh. " Dew yew thick it's a plant?"

"You ought to make a trade with it," said the captain.

"I don't see any chara," replied J. d. "But, if that ain't a ghost, I'm a sinner. Gall! Dela't it grown! I thought my time had come."

"It has. The same vice information that we should all have our throats out before in minut."

" (M. git east; faller, min't year?"

"Not at all; I'm in nothing rest in the High Int. If you built believe me, so charto the same and a situate to the same to the same to answer."

Just appresented the spot with he deling store, evidently not at all a limiting the situation. The solemn stillness which now related everywhere struck a nameless terror into him, and when he spoke his voice had an unmistakable quaver in it.

"Say I"

There was no reply.

" Mr. Ghost!"

Still no answer.

" Mrs. Ghost!"

The racks only gave back the sound of his voice, and he locked back at Tommy to see it it was not a sell.

"Mis Ghost!" he went on to say. "Gosh; that's all the family, unless its a boy-ghost, and objects to being 'mist red.' Say, ain't yew goin' tew speak?"

"What do you want?' said the veice, so saddenly and so nor that the Yankee Lapel from the grown l.

"I want tew speak tew yew."

" Say on."

"Dillyew say that we would all get our threats out 'fore mornin'?"

" It may be so."

Ain't it coryin' a joke tow for. Now I like a joke as well anybe ly, but darn a joke that goes tow for. Yew ar' as in', ain't yew?"

"Take warning, vain man. Leave this place, and never a min set foot in its unhallowed precincts. There is death in the air you breather. I have warned your officers, I now were you. Turn your steps toward the villages and never a. In the seen in the foot-hids of the sierras."

Yankee.

" It is."

"I while the of your lend so encry? What is a dispersion of a " Irreverent man, away!"

"J: Jew Say. Of Care, yew har a paint ight, so test with a material limit of the land if you my particular to my mind that you her got the law on your side."

" Begone, I say !"

1 Mill in the Denis Large to the Fig. 1

as far as yew've got?"

A liquid to be mean the locat of the normal is a part of the man in the part is the part in and in a part is a part in a part

CHAPTER V.

THE STORY OF MURDERER'S CANON.

Thus sometimed the form is in the property of the form of the form in the first sould be successful to the form of the form o

"Diluct the self repler net, led littly by the retained to the Land of the British of the Land of the Land of the Land of the British of the Land of t

"I did," a little part mai. " I a second is the method of the language of the language

"The warning volumes the property in the latest of the lat

Vi til vi vi man et diedi

VOICE?"

to assist process of the rest of the process of the rest of the process of the rest of the process of the proce

"Sher Am them," she the Maxion, in a tenewall all the dealth of the truth of what he said, "if you were to trice me up by the thurst stara we is I could tell you nothing about it, because I /a one take a I only know that there is a said on the trick March 1938 Cafon. I only know that it is a failed mystery, and that many have lost their lives in attached ing to many life. Yet here I the voice?"

" Yes."

" Did it warn you?"

" It did."

"Then, S for Americans, as you hope to live, as you wish to save the lives of your men, have this vall y for acr. No one has hear I the warning voice and remains a relative out me tips some form had the World y miller the story of Murderer's Canon?"

" Yes."

"Yeushall hear it, shor. It errel the property which the n w, and shall do a to This reasonie ; it was to the of a fearful transp. The maller, of the time, and the transfer. relative of mise. He had be to be a large to the second to the methanicity we man in the market in a comment of the tit—the base of the same of th stritus, or to be a least, but steet we control to the second is the similar of the time to the country of January and the terms of the country to the probability of the whole with our relies the Charles of the Land Land Country of the Aller and the country of t man, with dark or a fill of the fire of the Man is race, ". le pres le se per l'est de this is it is the first that the first term of term of the first term of the first term of werd bear to but it will be a single built by have the life to the state of the state of the first state of the stat In a distribution of the first the f they be the state of the state " I'm, ment the prover to the best of the will regret of the luxuries of her lather's house, and we happy with her husband. By they produce happer, as lateful was horn—a girl. Gon also was happer than ever, and he wells ed the harder to make hims if rich for her sale. There was gold in the valley, and he knew it; and all the error, has been her her before another winter came, they would have the lateful retreat, and go forth tich each to be equal to be in the pile of platering dust he had he quite posince they had come to the valley.

"One day he was out on the mount in huntier, and while there, he was seen and recensive black which he wells to have met for the world. It was the same of that conta who had loved Julia. Gonalis did not be a bit and the servent role off at fell special in line lie needs, who let scoured the country for and while to the the finite. But, all trace of them had been bet, and but by the area in the accident which brought Palto up the manifest in a fi some stock which but strayed, he mi at a ver have entire main. That night Gens dvo was the way in my. If pine with his little de litt, and tell his der wir little in it they should be when they had a tare it as S and Illand De Castro and a manier of his here in the little of the called to (interact) to content. Il the aries and a second forestat all might, and was a they be a directly to the first that overpowered him, enly three wored in, and come in the same the consin. They been ! Garav, and has little of its the open air, and with him J H. and the sand hard. who was appalled by the firm to be as at the light in the They bound Gen alvoto a tree and leather a fell for a file Liew that, excited by the head their tenter. they he are to the Indian comment has been at the side of the lacation would specific the contract of the co and the little and the state of · .ivo he we ill hill i... I i of the latter was up, too, et work. He told them that they were and that they were cowards. He dared De Cast. in a ry of pro-Lii, us term at his command, to loosen his ' ... . I fight him with any was a larming have, but called down the traface of heaven eyem him it he delany wrang to Jee ear the child.

tro. 'I will fight you now.'

" The little of said Generalve; the best man shall win.

" What shall be the weapons?"

" Ritles.

" The distance?

" Forty paces.'

" The rules?"

" · To the later a the work directed it."

" · I could not call may be ther tenne," said G medico.

"They at him at III is your lower him his rife. Hele, he cliff carefully, like one who was used to the work. They to their plants. At the world one? they reisely their plants as at 'two' plant the lip of the man who was one that, the rich of i). Can the right had been done in the length of the rich of the right of the carefully structure at the earth it was a corpse.

"John the a her him; a the lety when a single a charle it and, and chaped him he here has not a world by a here in the letter of the letter of

it. Row you shall be mine.' .

Price of the Company of the late of the la chall? It is mise. Its factor is in a large to the part to take care of it as his orem. When a large to the

"The Vir in allier me, I will, sail G. .... "Dr. will you not sorrow to part from it?

times in a rapid, eager way.

have it that we must part. That her than 1 th man, and may God deal with you as you had been hard.

"That is en a chably," s it I be to the till the terminal his with the first the first the first to built to the body, kissing the lips.

"I bil the farwell, Condvo. List the there, I was an accordant least Will castile has received from the large and shall join this bartly think here.

dwell on the face of the dead.

I did this in love of you.'

the Ward has been been been as the single of the second Castro.

Wy man will be brief. My man will be brief. I by

" And this was during leve, Mir line Co. . ?

" It was."

The light would have me care in the part in the care i

The continue with the first that the first the first terms and the first terms and the first terms are the

" · Yes.

" Take it, then,' she cried.

in the first own brust and the first own brust own brust home to the very lift. She stored to the sile of her her lostly draw the work in from the very hard fill to at the organization to had her, she was do in Tary hard to have some and the home which carrieve, who rather to specify the hard and of all which discharge to the point of which and her child. Great the plant of a lost his companion, who have a correct the plant of a lost his companion, who have a correct the plant of a lost his companion, who have a correct the plant of a lost his companion, who have a correct the plant of a lost his companion, who have a contract the him sine at the stary of Marie as a Color."

"A transe tab. Is there not pal?"

- any one so warm 1 is mandered here."
  - "And that is the way it received the name?"

" Si, senor."

- filly to be in a country when we do not be it is embodied spirits walk the earth."
- heard the voice."

" But you believe it?"

- "I have been but here by which a ver do it in " --
- "And who are they who commit the crimes which give
  - " How should I know?"
  - " is I to Brance in the Learner
  - " [ 1. . . ] . "
  - " But do you know?"
  - " I do not."
- tion of Gomez and the child."
  - "Where is this Gomez?"

spoke, had fiel from Mexico and talen somio with Do Coster as Vaquetio. I do not know why he comm; but he is gone."

"The the child would be sevent a year of age and?"

" Si, señor."

"I should like to see the graves," said Illie.

Hillest stooped and removed the consistency of the property of the prince to his feet. The Maximum to the history of the threat. He led the the property of her pines near the eastern has effect to be a likely and there, one wider than the others.

"Here," said De Castro, printing to the movemental is his fact to be, "He then mains of Mill I I Carra, who were the code his save and who were the latest to the orbits, who were the latest to the orbits, and in the latest text that he is in the latest text to the latest.".

"You speak as if you felt for them."

"I do, Julia was my comin, as a long time in the distribution of the Besides, they were all Mexicans."

"Where was the cabin?"

"On youder slope. Remignall the less have conditioned at less twent was but of them, for the mentioned it as well as they could be over they beth?"

"Stance in book. You may we all rut it, but I, tell can not of your blook, but single play for the proof which bit is a upper year of her but it.

"You do? Symplesy is the part what on I is for that? It can be character that to be of the property of the part of will speak to the captain."

in a sarcastic tone.

"By no means, my worthy filmel," replied the young man, "I have no has all not retreating. But, what we have hearly art tooley makes a change of plan somewhat necessary."

They retend to the camp. The Mexican went back to hit I hale, and Land drew the captain asis.

"Late, I militare that Mexical. I believe he means to had you into some ambura. But shall we hap him, or try to get on without him?"

"I den't se how we can. If we set him free, he will be which to let the be out in his know all about us."

"I did not me do to bet him go, but to keep him a prisoner and trust no more to his guidance. By the way, what if he were a member of the gang, after all?"

"It may be; but I hardly think it. To be sure there is not it is in a Great, whatever, and he may be lying to bu; it is in the broth. But I think we had better he plana, and water him more closely. He will at least lead to hear the relationship and ask is too them within armisely.

"Shall we go on to-night?"

"Idea's think at he to does. We can tell he terial hit the land at the princip to have the same, for these we shire the time for a first

The hollshear proceeding the try clouds for an to a little particle has a circumstant and the dense for enveloped them curvery side. The man to and shelter, until the rain we over, under the protecting ledges.

CHAPTER VI.

THE MARCH.

Arealy in this the riveles of the they is a factor of the interior of the factor of th his part would be the signal for his death. The term, set has of the men on other side balled has a little dreamed of betraying them.

The clouds had providency, and all the large of the control with the ray, at the risk tends. The providence of the clouds of the characteristic of the control to the control the control to the control that the control to the contro

"Us sort of place, I'm a sinner."

"Way have you hanglet us here?" demand i Lan.

"Because this is the only way to the hand of the middle," replied De Castro.

to do." - 'W. Live work

The band advanced at a quick pace, and ment of a the Marija, to a narrow equals at in the month in the life, the last pack they must pack they must pake they must be a last pack they must be a last pack.

Sich a weman! In all his war of the limit to a construction of the limit and his war of the March of the large was unconfined, we half as I to supplied any meaning the facility of the large march of the " Halt !" she cried.

The first term of the first of Imp., gin every motion of her body, her by and her eye. The equivalent collinging values in him.

"Stand back!" she cried.

We have much to do."

"Think you that I am ignorant of your midden? You are not them. You come to destroy the Brithess of the League. Than It k, then. You are not the ones for linguistic forms by receipt out the man of the momental large. The lyou all turn book, if you would live."

"We are not men to be fright hed," replied Lane. "We have my men took up the rifle for the specie, they meant were a They me at to destroy the manderers who infest the for home, and they will do it."

"They will never see that day," replied the girl. "You tread up now make. Danger is about you on every head; don't haks in every rock and tree. I have humanity creek to wish to save life. "Do not go on."

"By he wer, we will," replied the captain. "Notice shall turn us."

"Foundation shall, as you will fail to your out. You have by wanted once. This is the state of warm."

"How know yet we have that want in district !

Dili t.

"No matter; so bolt to the mins. For the will, while which makes the chills a shape, I am as got a bas year are; but the time is not yet to stry to elimin the."

Whis she was speaking, her opes set I from the to the view that the Court the Monte en, which an invent to h, which is did not some to not so her. She care more r, so that the will how a within reached the room. The mesh, specifically as a last the bounded visit a with which the roye. We start the bounded visit a with which the principle of the last which could be the mans of Do Court, as well as a last the room to have the ro

"After her, Tennay!' he cried. "Hi she enter, the fits is in the fire."

Was narrow, allowing only two man to to a section this pass went the two offers, and to pass the large of the bank of a yawning graff, thirty or integrated which was van it in only the large of the part of which was van it in only the large of the plant of which was van it in only the large of a papeared, but whicher? Was it passed to the plant of the passed of th

"Carse it!'s all Lane, " what has court the all 182. They much to be detect, be probable in a stain, be a series? It is a to a series men."

They have a later to the restrict to the restrict of the process of a substitute of the restrict of the restri

"I say, cap.," ail a barly fellow, as the control of I don't like this, I don't."

"Neath roto I, Best. The missis is in the paper We have the time Mexican, and have no close to the local test of the paper. Bers. I wish we had shot him."

"But, I say, cap.," product the man ( ...) But the product that that woman was a human?"

" Why, Burt? Of course I do."

"She months be, and then a fin the property I that the ain't. It don't deal to property it applies a spill rock, and it is not to property in my hide of she didn't."

" Pshaw, Burt, nothing of the kind,"

" Whar be she then?"

"That I can't tell. You don't suppose the Mexican was a classical post;—and he is as completely hidden as the girl."

"The is a cop.," will the man, brightening. "He wain't have a cop.," will the man, bright post when we put the same and his thumbs. But what is they serie? Can any

C. + 1/11 2"

"No, But. There is one effect thing to prove that this we alt a heat. Size we do a knife to cut the conds on that I have needed a large to do that."

"Related in," said Bott, completely relieved. "Then it is not to recombiletely to first, we wen't have to fight any tains but humans. The right gird of that, I am. You have Google But, but yer? He's a hoss from old Kenter. R. He sin't ath the of no men that ever put his to in a recombility and the activity soult, of is; but, who is sin't my him. I'm it it a crizzly source. Say, op, whom are we goin'to solve it to the eyers have to be wenter, anylow. I'm jet spiced for a first, I am. Com't we raise a must specify.

"I si, while we red But, the part the where the men are we have got to fight."

" The little of the last of th

"I mich to. Yes, Peter and Wins, and too forward at I will you can be verify to editional reaction. The moment you do so, return to us."

"Thank you, cap You know what a man wants, you do.

Christing, by Well find 'em, we will'

The rest of the bond went how a little way on the platform, I when the interpretation of the source, who enter it the durk pass. They were three of the bot men in the band—non who had fought in this of every tries, and the netches on who such stocks tell on many sodys they had taken in their hard fought bottle. It had be nonemarked in the bond shows the West than had been many positionally a three West then had been appeared from the history parents many positionally a three tweets them had been appeared by the large tries that proceedings and pass the bond in the large collision of the lar

"Dang me if this ain't quest," will Bert, sequention to look into the black depths. "I wanter what they call her crossed?"

"Mebbethey Jillin," mill Prin. "I have him had

The Californian is great on a cent. The most religion of such that a least religion is the cast. The common horse many supersides one a profession. When at a less for a word, they called the best towards to a fellow. "I him on over the role at a late. I him

"We can't gis ever, can we?" add B. A.

" Whar ?" said Burt.

raugh? The sorr, just to be put that the ming little be did."

"Thet's oli sight," said Peter. " because I am pergo nerest that their colds. Yer baids to be it."

"Yes I ken, Dick Peter. I ken a jet seem. Nov look yer!"

The charactly rate is started, and the imptly. The libs was ediquate, which is a liberal conformation, but in pair little to its rate.

Wills, grapher at the equipment the result of the moment his rate start it the result of the conformation of the moment his rate start it the result of the conformation o

" Stop thar!"

ger, what mought you want?"

"That ther chap had better a true to a

" Why ?" said Burt.

to try to cross that that held

" Whar be yer?" said Burt.

voice.

" No," replied Burt.

all better git back out'n this."

and the Heather on consing while the others were in conversation, but he was watched.

"Manuel!" said a deep voice.

esi, en .," replace which they knew, though they call not so the owner, as that eithe Maxima, De Castro.

"Where are a mow ?" damar the grain.

" liere, señor."

ing. His obstinacy will lose him his life."

A Location than claude and an allocation the reck willing on in hor the real of While. He as one common has hely real, while movement, it is the dipole of the trick of the property of it. I be dipole of the trick of the property of it. I be dipole of the in the arm. The word, in it has be dead in I had a point the interpolation of While related in the left for a remember to the problem in the property of a property in the special bank problem. The course of the special bank is the dead of the problem in the remaining dead of the problem in the remaining of the problem in the remaining of the problem in the remaining of the problem and carried the problem in the remaining in the course of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the problem is the problem and carried in the contraction of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the problem is the remaining of the contraction of the contracti

"The public of the stern voice they had being be.".
"It has an emperious, by heaven by a fill."

Then have period, Walls had there to whip real's

"Them wis alsolounda they delle Reight yer hege, a

"Hill on a minit," replied But. "The we ver."

He turned and reshed he k to the neutral carps. All species to prince of the land to the l

"He will."

"I'm all right," said Willis, who had won lettle caller dee.
"What yer goin' ter do?"

" Ken yer hold on with our hard, and pass this product yer should r with the other? Said Dan

"You bet yer," replied Willis, coincident his manner in him I from the reck. "Testant have been my hard."

Burt gathered up the land, made the new will took threw it over the head, as required. While partial his in arm through it, and shifted his entire weight to that arm. The pain must have been intense, but he had yen total alor to draw himself up and get his it it arm the partial land, which was now drawn tight under his arms.

"Take hold thar, all of yer," he should "Im again" ter jump onter that led to under yer ! - ."

The men seized the reposition in an analytic that the latest which are also but slipped off again, and he was horized the series of the men above. The next manner the was on the position of the pass, penting for breath, but the again. However, and shook hands heartly.

our time about this yer. We've and to him yer skanis. And they're ther; I late a h.

"Whar?" demanded one of the men.

"Down ther," replied Walls, product the territory of the Distribution? Distribution at this yer one in my arm."

Two crance manner threberit minuth ! !

down. But they could see a will go will de er.

"Pelmw, Willie, that that the 'y and ther," will be

"Then I'm a har. What alid I this property I sip as yer think Jam Wan. Is a second with part. The is wrong. He kin only map, only who and only at any more the kothills; now mind I that yer. Why has a larger part by many the first part of the first part.

*Don't crow & land, Jim Willi, or parallel and terminger combont," of all Bert, "in a land of the land

1., :-1......

"Why dai't you mand has then?" sail Han. "Shib up to me once; oh, do."

What a little to a the reliferent in the first was extractly between the least the relief the first in the circle, and the men should away, booking cowed and asbamed.

CHAPTER VII:

UNDER THE MOUNTAIN.

quart desthis men, men? criel Ellist. "What! a

"We dishit in an no harm, belonint," said But, shoping, "Jim was crewin'; netty load, and we dishit like to her him do all the talkin' himself."

"I then it yet were the let of frinds, or I should not be to the party of the party said Line."

We're find, Isjan But, white Branch at him, and hit him in the arm."

"Biyer Mi they dil," said Jim.

" Penas it is only some Plates, hill in the cally?

"No, 'colot,' soil Bont. "I hand 'em talk, and car was the Greaser, sart'in sure."

Helications it the very of the milliant is the win. He layer the only property of the ora. As however, a post i was the lowest expectation aim that the hall graded his call, if the what he kept they have a tental in hall consider a limper of the some lower. The relation which they are it was not made than a few hishest contributions of the way, with a hall relation of the two. As he relation is not have well as he had a lower than a few hishest and have the same a tental his fill his fill have a lower and the many and the relation to the same at his high a tental has possible heart.

"We have to them, hal," call han. "How can we get sight at them?"

replied Elliot.

"A bridge !" was the cry.

The run is radiod back to the continuous better write. In his than half an har they had been at the mail (the, nearly firty feet bear, built them on the carried on the ed well the chan, and were ruly for the belief. Their way of laying the mass mainer. The Para to hit him corrent, and then the mental in little parts of a fix laten, and who this was done or but the but were min tierrele. The living of the living to the and the being sould suffice to a time of the transthen relief ( - to the relief on the part of the last, tend the third. When this was done a very residence was Compiled over which Bill two to this to the of pirtimizer and arrows were set at him with to the and he read the still relief in a sign. At the little to a fill awal, at ping and hapter to the well; but, to a the selfth in were slightly were tel. All which had to a Class I could be a the hall the Tention The picture to the Tention cirlity i the wilth, and as first in it. It was come as a cl with men, who were hereing at the side of the state have the state of in a set of the Carity, and all the second the The blaten in wall. A will a blanch in layer bering the result the sector of the last and the there is the entire card. The state is the entire of for a atter tell, i'r they saw it stir to the passing breeze. White the contract of the cont in I the companies of the property of the contract of the cont the cavity. Not one of the bull we in the Till be god in that show."

"You !" said Elliot.

"Course I will. What of it?"

"Nothing, only there is some danger in the undate him."

and I. How dew yew man tow git down there?"

"That will be a year da," sail the young man. "Conte over to the other side."

" What for Y"

They creed the histily-constructed bridge, and sould in safety on the other side.

" We want two or three laring," said Ellist,

The lates were produced, and the years must be took one on the rooks in a strong man, rand he blue if down over the brink of the produce, descerbing hard over head. As he reached the spot where the cavity because, he had a later upon the rook, and then slid further down the right, he play the median impact of by the produce By median characterism, he kept him of sweet in a table way, lowering hims if a lighest every swing, which was now on in the transfer of the reacreto risk a judge. He then was back for the late time, and released to the play the right strain of the right for the late of the reacreto for the right of the right for the first on the right and the form. The most for a late of the right had been able to right and the form of him to right he had be shown the size of him yearhed companion, bodies about him with enamed the companion, bodies about him with enamed the companion, bodies about him with enamed the companion.

"Queer place, ain't it ?" he said.

" Very," replied Elliot.

They stood upon a platform of quarz, in which ellist particles of gall. Whose wors the days when quartz min a was not on a the which land they never dround left the well which hay been choosed to the Bot, where he had the equiple a new who had on a platform platform next ten minutes had a tensor of a heavy flest, broken agreements as a few and a damage many many and a line to seized at once.

manded Josh.

Part of the part of the second of the second

"I be the property of the Description of the last of t

- "Dilyons eller on the platie 12" sill Halt, our rig.
- "Oh, the sebase—there by ," sold the Yorker, sindle place heal say by. "Yew can't help their being them has been able to work over, can you? Now, yow are just deal in his with that gal in a minnit."
  - "Pdaw!" sall Ellis, " ... R leaf i."
- "Mebber I'm a foliation of I shift silve it "Dait yow sipes I've get any eyes in my lead, syt I hid to eve be a thinkin' about her giver six of your say her fold—and it was a polished take little 'an text— that is her may effect size out 1 the Maxima? Oh, to: I had he had been thing 'sout love matters. I was he had a report of thing 'sout love matters. I was he had a report of, 'dear?'
  - " Were you?" said Elliot, absently.
- for it the time I sen her coming or in the relationship in the time I sen her coming or in the relationship in the term dong as helps when here or here the restriction in the late of the relation in the relation in the relation in the relation in the result of the relation in the relation in the result of the relation in the result. The relation is a relation to the relation in the result of the relation in the result.
- "Norse "," il Elle, siching I de de trait "De net let us war tim, but main seam I ... I ... te a secret passage somewhere."

Tary particles the wall, examining in the interest to the start of an epict. Lead the grant term that he is not be an interest to the interest gran. It brains a little shaker. Latter the grant first

"I so no promite," will have, or our "Combit; I am

Helicia stone in his head, which he had a street the wall as he species as he did so he was sept of the entire wall man which has been able to be a filled as a fill of a large that they was to be a fill of a large to a fill of the theory was sainted. He says a fill a large that they was sainted as a fill a large that the was sainted as a fill a large that the same and the same an somelow need etal to spill of the leak, and the blow of Illiet had ease hit to epop. They say that a dear of some had had the lines that a discretization every side. When the head had have didn't have didn't have a didn't have didn't

"We have the sect?" call he, early. "Hip me to prop this open, Simpkins."

As he spece, there was a reshelf a tin the pass, which I works have and the legent the dark. Ellist halps, be all invariant a some and the help adar, so that it could not seed the seed half a dark near the last and the help a dark near the last and the many that a dark near the help a dark near the help a dark near the help and the many that he had a last a dark near the help and the many that he had a last a dark near the help and the many the help and th

." Cheeks stamped in, . As if with the iron hoof of sin."

Hill throw that the periline I shows by the first of the cut has a tar so that were the rail by the stack, but not in the ly the By this tare. I not had because his part of the raily. By this tare I not had because his part of the raily to attack, as had raily to the many to attack, as had raily to the raily that the raily to the raily to the raily the raily the raily to the second teneral his the raily the r

"Lesk out ther," cried H.H. "I warm you that the first

"Look yer, sten or," sallone of the men, regular, "what men pre-payin' result the eyerdic has from I dult have as yer have a tany call ter be have."

Tarmins are feet to any who cheet, "sail

"Fried better the real and the real application in a finite and a second and the real content and the real content

" ... c.t," said H... t. " Your know my beauty I know yours just as well. There is no use whatever for you to be a about the lusic. I am Tom Elliot, and I'm death on men of your kind. What do you mean to do?"

"You have got to go with us," said the man.

"Not if I can help it," said Elliot. "Where do you propose to take me?"

The fellow point I into the heart of the mount in.

"In there?" said Elliot.

"Yer bet. Jest as neat a place as yer ever saw. Come along."

"I'm not quite realy," sail Elliot. "I don't see my way clear to going there with you. I gue-s you will have to excuse me.".

"Couldn't think of it," replied the man. "The best has got some hing to say to you. Really, you we docume."

"Don't pres it," said Tommy. "I condition think of it."

" Cenn along, you!" cold the man, la limited to get at my. "We can't waste time with yer now."

The Yanker Courtd his whittling, but his eyes lett vely a emotion, though a cise observer no hthreesen that his is were buy, and that they had collected quite a Hale placed quartz stones. Every moment the long feet and because 1 line extended, and another stone added to the pile. He last is eye on the leader of the robbers, who had tura land is a tile young man referred to go with them, and hail his home upon his weapon.

"Lower your Land," said Ellist, " or I will fire."

In the lost complying, the rullian spring at him with a ve the cure, tollowed by his men. The platels of Line ... pholed, and the villain fill dad, with a ball in his ballin. The second was snot through the shoulder, and four men wereposed to two.

At this moment the Yankre shope out with m. lin.; i. lester. He stooped suddenly, and rese with e.c. le at fit holling a "young rock." The next roller, seeler il a th pitels of Elliot were empty, was rubble on to this him with a latific, when the stone, impelled by the parent in inof the Yanke, truck the raillan in the f. . The remains ed a green and dropped as if shot, his jew duter all he an The send missile was defeat by the robber at the many was saimly at the expense of the man who followed that an include store on the top of his head, that the fact at the expense he had not edgraphed the fact. The ray mean at the mean he had not edgraphed the fact that his sixth, challing another piece of quark which should have a sixth, challe a part of the band of Right strength have a manuscal, while a part of the band of Right that his an area of the band of Right that have a constant above, and prefer the band of Right the rescue of their young leader.

The improvement of this —a powerful follow, by the representation of the provided follows so the provided his realized that he had no ordinary man to deal with.

The content sold like about the body, and tried, by the content of this separate strongth, to hear him to the earth. It is, the principal principal at the body his charge in a strike a way to say in sight or call arrest his may ments, and they tall up a large that the tried of the robber, he occupied as in the first of the first and the robber, he occupied as in the first of the first and th

." Let up," he managed to say.

In the state of the land a purple has was created by the land the remaining to a main the remaining the land the land the when he became restive.

half a minnit."

the constant of the contract o their lacks and hamble. And by the time the larkets had been product, and a portion of the Readlers deceaded, the door of the hamble was clock, and Elliot and the Yankee were in the heart of the mountain.

CHAPTER VII.

THE SECRET HAUNT.

The prior is, let d in the arms of start in in, were considered the cark passage. They heard the clark of a spile 3 belief them, and have that retreat was cut ell. Elliet saw that he was in bed hands. The mountain outlews was independent of an independent of them down without have on a min like him, who hands I them down without have. But, even in his great down, his eyes and cars your open. For a time, the fit twere of nos rying to him, that is not appear, and the distant sound of yells to hear in the fible.

"I've carried them ber en wh," said one of the capters."
"Let 'em walk the rest of the way."

The cash were marked from their limbs, and they were set upon their feet.

"Now, is it hyar, stranger," said the mount deer, "le' resiv yer a lit of a lyies. Don't yer try ter man. He yer a', yer may bet yer life, I'll shoot yer."

"All right," said Elliot.

" St. Il we blin hold 'em, Dave?' said one of the men.

"Mod" replied the flat speaker. "As we don't mean they

" I ... think that way," sail Simplines; "I don't had in."

"Win the devil ar' yer, anyhow?" dimandal the other, turning sharply upon the speaker.

Shapling, and I live way up by Dania in a, Various L. My father is a deacon. Everybody anows him. He's linear effecting the church for mor'n forty year."

"Day up," sail the ordion. "Don't talk no more."

"But, mister-" began Josh.

1 h lyan. Find have been believer jaw? New, 1 h lyan. Find have, jet new, and if you jet property, only jet people is been as a cricket, I'll take yer so by."

in I do her. Why that's wors then a wild In-white man, please don't; I don't like it."

"Gag him I" said the outlaw.

I have because it was sized, a solk thrust into his month and thruly strop, it belief his eas, in such a way that, if his to the last to way that, if his to the last to way that, it imposed to the part of his extures, which only and the last trenths part of his extures.

The prise reward harried along at a brief per firest letten mint, over a very neigh iller and the glother. los fall lines in a whom the link grow brighter, as he beg sum at let they had emerced into a larer com, in which to the contract the property of the first term o cially. The remains how to an institute the continue to 1. The little will the property They mere of an agree and allow, the example of an arrange of the great state of The term of the District, the third (in the both tell -els, sistematical distribution of which Medical mental Lie Land Land Land The room was the of the sectors to Contact the state of the state elander this little lightestic to the late the print the matter additional position of quarter and the transfer of the state of th I ... I to the property of the state of the the state of the s the same of the first terms of t the state of the s

De Casio. His confenance was distarted with pas in, and held up to view his disclosed thumbs.

"Doyms - them, were's that y man ?" he cale."

"Yes, I see them," said all to coolly. "They had hather blue."

Deales! Then I are this in mind. You shall die. But, before you yield your breath, every inch of your lay shall look like that. Did you think, when you tennel it, that a De Castro would ever suffer such in liquity to go may and hely They never forget."

pose to do with me here?"

De Castro.

"Fear part Not in the lest. If my hard were free, I should take placers in he chirapper down, he was "

De Cestro de was knie and redel et lieu; bet, helf a denna a sie land hell the infristel man bet.

"Let men " at him," he resuch " I will have his heards blood?"

"All in good time, De Cestro," said a slight fill went be you holding him, and a potters. "But, we are not quie willing that you should have all the pleasure to yours in"

Palet turn of a sirele look at the speaker, as I is a like nature in that quick claims. As we have sail, here were to a low, a last of all allow, in fact, with a lace out Freeze and cancer. Dut, not with standing the Chisch lex agrees of example that the chisch lex agrees of a semewhat i pplic means of for an outlaw, as face and a light content of a mean of for a continuous face and a light of the characteristic and a light content of the lace tends of a light cancer and a light canc must have my revenge." -

in the language of the control of the property of the property

"I be the that I will be the it will be propertied in the properties."

off , and He warrel as of that before he went away."

The prime of the gord or the who stood near the prime. The prime by the formulations and made a silent in the prime by the familial rose and made a silent in the prime beautiful the prime by the capture. They present through another narrow preserve, into a sold remark them, where removing the mag from the month of John who had been wishing unheard-of miseries to light in the man the main at they united in stepping his tongue.

" The will remain Law for a while," said the outlaw. " Feed will be brought to you soon."

II to a saway, but Illi t called him back.

"White white sy?" the million demands.

" Who are Jon?"

- What else?"
  - "Where have I seen you before?"
    I don't think you ever have."

. " Have you ever seen me?"

" A hundred times."

" An your and a sold the Brethers of the Lea ter?"

TI., the hard barrenell rin the back Yet I., and the control of the period what year characters."

"In we not the third of that. If, a prince, you know that I came that I came that it is a rest that it is a prince of the table of the article of the table of the article of the white the article of the white the article of the white will do my work."

The state of the state of the second state of the second s zierras shall feed upon their bodies."

The contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the contract of the last are a test to less the last are a tes

"You will find that my fid ad, Captain Lane, is a tanan to leave his work undone."

"What is he to the chief" replied the outlaw. "Ledenter. Do I seem a man very likely to yield my in the likely to the sway of another? But, I have the likely given myself wholly to the chief."

" Whom do you mean?"

" 'in 'la broi' the banl," sail Gal' 11.

"Who is he?".

"Who can tell? He is one whom the lijestic of the country we call free has driven to this morat that the name to have it in the Dhu, he halls a join tall, and will continue to hold it."

" What is his name?"

is a man to lead and be obeyed."

"What is he, after all, but a har berefile. The health and have and her of health and her all the health and her and h cry men, and every mean's hander. " I har?"

the transfer of the later of th

"I knew you were murderers."

by our oath."

band, is he not?"

"He is one of us."

"I with we had hill I him. My hard the hard it is we and hat into trouble on his a section in the re-come soon and bring you food,"

Let !! it would be a second of the second of

"I am sarry for you," said Ellist. "Wiy did you come into the sierras?"

"I can't help it. That the first told me of a men up has been a men up has been an it is a substant of rell-tell up towards the top. I have the top it is the property of the

"In the company description of Tray," replied that a Winter war, and I finey the man who is this you marry his helt cut with a story, and the converse who adopted to oil and the energy of were straining who is a new week taken, we like a great account of you."

But they were comin' is let at me. Depon it, could be a let 'on the atthemption of the letter. Not by a medical at I was the it is nown denis. Depit yow think, of I was to a little at I didn't mean no harm, they'd sent rict me off easy?"

"No, I den't think they would, my proceedings. They are in the true of a manifest problem, who would desire the the West and a finite to the true of the many indeed, who would desire of the without a single compact them. By common of the true of " West I did, bloom his plant to the distribution his later to the first his many that he is a later to the history, any way. I delice some on 'one in a car's to in the interest of the inter

" Isla proceed that the late the Markey of the

"It led: I! White ser a letter! As project a fill-blooded heifer."

"I wish I could see her again."

A more entered with a large war in all a, we consider some son, and another of our war. It is not a to the first both men were here, i.e., and a property is a large war. It is contents.

CHAPTERIX.

THE TRAITOR'S DEATH.

In that distant plan, the Minister to the best of the observed. The two ments of the problem at a fine legiter they were district ity can visit is. Lagrange . . . to be in ming of the days that the interest to be the othersa; delute to a a very. Per in the plant or three last off party and the contract of th Line Consider that he by Manne a Manne to the second second proportions, but were as in the Outer and I have place parmis condition in the first time to the tell. A little in the rest of an artist and the second that Light as the first, to be the first that the first the first in the property of the second . . The the term is the state of the state o retire."

"Chi C'edland, i. Special, "The prisoners are here."

The contraction with the wind of the contraction of the Ralph Gartield.

for the prisoners."

stools and at once retired.

chi I si li ply successi e at his head with a community gesture, spoke:

The Youth the Property of the Lorent Porpoles we have I have been a south the Property of the Lorent inviolation of wall have a little to be property of the hard the world we have been a hour production of a major with the hard hard here two men, who, had not a major the hard has all have been enough, period that hard his production is the hard has a fact that he had a hard hard here have described as the hard hard hard here have here the hard hard hard hard here has a hard here. They have described his hard hard here has a hard here.

"Thomas Elliot."

- Yet and make the facility of the situation of the situati
  - "I have the harm to be a hard in that bely."

" Was and part part of the adaptable of

- To the the castled to II that of the
  - " He many to the part of the best?"

" Enough to suit my purpose." .

not deceive us."

"Then why do you ask?"

" The room harrow to whome and a mining and

- any manner change my fate."

"I am realy for whatever fare awais."

"Rether', your, sir," said the fill, who had not, thus fir, untered a way... "Think what you say. To be a cape."

"I second," said the protonue, with which of a a admiration at the speaker. "I am project it but the work."

"It is hard to die so yours," alle I the hard "Year and the last of your his brake you. Doory this for hardy you on. This is just opening. Why had been her?

"I sould live us him as Goldens F. Edita" soil II it.
"I do not ive up my mer all y. I am a take the year the model so the holdens and the part of the " Har there are the first the first

" What is it?' said Elliot.

"Join the band."

" Indeed !"

rance. Year above marginal colline. It is a superior to the colline of the collin

"Line was the part of the property of the part of the

The Masser the Misser the second seco

The stocker in process with a little of the little of the

you would have the area of the Assis burnish total total total total two ban lits, and who alone had his face uncovered, flung himself at her feet and classed her hand in his.

"Do not go, sanda, for God's sake do not leave me here alone."

Edict saw with surprise that it was a miner who had given him the best information as to the whereabouts of the band, at I who had been left at the village from which the Regulators march. 1.

"Rahas my hand," said the girl. "You know that I can do nothing for you."

But, stay by me. Do not leave me alone with these men They will kill me. I know they will."

"I repeat, I can do nothing. Let me go."

She struzzled to free her hand, with a face painfully impress, I with compassion, but the man chargeto her, and would not let her go, crying out that he had no hope but in her. The outlaws force I his hands away from her and she harried out, paring her thegas in her cas to shut out his mountal cry for play, and for her to stay. He fill prostrate, and scened to have no power to rise himself again. The men him I him, but, as often as they did so he shift to the floor. Apparently the sight of the scene chief had robbed him completely of strength.

a stool?" Let him have Elli t remembered Lim as a strong, active fellow, a perfect while, and wendered that the tear of a single man should so red his strongly-ballt shows of their strength. The officer ray of themselves on each side of the long room, he ping that we propose bare. The chief researd should:

"Who is this without a mask?"

And the bear I answered, with one voice, "Junes Conway."

"How is this?" sail the chief. "James Conway is a near-"Worthy chief," said one of the men, "he has for int the right to wear a mesk while the band are in council."

"Why?" I much the chief

"He hath h trayed the secrets of the hand."

"He lies!" shricked them in. "I never did in. I never spring."

- "Every thing must be proved," said the chief. "Words are nothing. Who is he that dares to speak thus of a member of our band?"
- "One of the band," replied the accuser. "One who can prove his words."

" ()f what do you accuse James Conway?"

"Did he say where?"

"I do not know. I heard him say that, if Elliot well give up his title in a certain claim, he would tell him where to find the Brothers of the League, and destroy them."

" Did he do so?"....

- "I know that he got the claim, and that he went with the bund as far as the foot-hills. It was there we found him."
- "I was coming up here," screamed the accuse!. "I tell you I was coming up here to tell you that the Recellars were coming. I did not betray the band. I meant to intray the Regulators. Upon my word I meant to do it."
- "You can not deceive us," said the chief, sternly. "J.n.es Conway, are you a member of the Brethers of the League?"

"I am," said the man, bravely.

"You have sworn to be true to us?"

"I have, worthy chief. I meant to keep my cath."

. "Do you remember that oath?"

"I-I think I do, worthy chief."

"Listen, and you shall hear me repeat it, and what I have done, we shall see if you have kept the outb."

Elliot held his breath as the deep voice of the oction to be out that fearful oath. He had never heard as the till as terrible. Two bloody dargers, a skedl and cross-to-s, water brought forth and haid on a stand before the chief. On how was placed on them, and the other was rais 1 upware.

The the presence of God, I do schemby sacred. If I all ever keep inviolate the secrets of the Browners of the Lorent I show his shall, while the model is an invitable to the who was untilled to the volume of the possible part of the will be passed to this mentals return, and in no many on, by his type of the passes to this mentals return, and in no many or, by his type of the sign to bury the presence, numbers, designs or acts of the League. I swear never to make the signs of the League unless in the service and interests of the League. I swear to ail and some ra Brether in danger or distress, even at the risk of hir. I swear to serve the League by murder, rapine, robbery and the ?. The man who is not a Brother, and has gold, I star to treat as I wild prev. Should I ever knowingly vi i.a this, my harful outh, I consent to be led, in an open man, r, h, re the band, my face uncovered; then, in the pleaner of drawer duriers, while the chief repeats to me this salma eath, I swear to abide by the trial which I have incurred. If I am condemned, the chief shall erder the senine, which shall be a stab from each member of the band in street a, taking care to avoid vital parts; then the chief shall sie threethreeth the heal. My flesh shall be cloven it may be seed burnel to askes. My heart shall be taken the angles in at Hari-d, but my bones shall remain in the caren, as an explicating membrial that I was then and there series it at a reasoning justice of the League. So help are God, as I keep this yow!"

The pully which had been enduring the greatest a by what the child was reporting the hearth pleater. He know that I was hand. He knew that all his enime was lift had been the Learne, and that they knew that, for a help gill, he had breign that their heath eath oath. As the had were it to be if a track he higher the child, a tential cry competition the price it's high, and should have be derived made a vicing blow at him. Only his remarkable a rilly and strength of arm entitle him to child it. The track raceoutly, forming at the made had been his compades.

be murdered by you."

" Sir Lie, real" ori lathechif.

The interpolate forward, when the inferior included similar that interpolate his thin, which interpolate him at the late of the interpolate him at the hour of death.

"I defy you all!" he cried. "I hate you, black-hearted villain, calling yourself chief of the Leeger. If I could have did contented."

"Brothers," said the chief, "ye have seen and hearl. Is this man guilty unto death, or no?"

" He is," cried the hand, as with one voice.

"Then keep your oaths."

Forty daggers gleamed in the torchlight as they circle about the doomed man. One by one the logic is were related to the denot, but, through all, the greatest care was to an that no weapon should touch a vital part. At let, every the 'e we ensanguined, and the victim, faint from loss of the last showing won lerful fortitude little in heeping with his bearing upon first entering the room, sunk upon one kneeping and cost an undismayed glance at the chief.

"Finish your work, fiend," he said. "Year pewer I despile, your name I care, and upon your fature I call all the venceance of an offended God."

With his pistol in hand, the chief stepped down from the dais on which he had been sitting up to this moment. So a thing in the unblenching fortitude of the downed miner to held him. Though showing the white feather at first, when he saw that hope was gone, he met his fate like a mer. The chief pitied him. What of that? Bejding placed the Serreant of Artillery, and yet he shot him. His ver's are immortal. "We next do what we next."

" Have you any messages?" .

" No."

" Nothing to say?"

The face of the men lighted up suddenly.

"Yes. I summon you to meet me in a price it it is two suns shall rise and set."

The chief raised his pisted and placed it to the carety contraiter. All turned away their head. Then followed to report, and the outlines timed to behold the below Conderstretched upon the stone floor. The Chief put up the pitting and said, in a tone of triumph:

" It is done!"

CHAPTER X.

INEZ.

The dead body, lifted by the strong hands of a number of men, was all utly borne away. Not a face in that wild band entressed the slightest contrition for the death of him who had been a valued member of the League; not a man dared question the justice of the deed which the person known as call it had just committed. They had subscribed to the same solumn eath, which had sent Conway to his doom, and they filt that in their leader they had found a master—one fitted by nature to exact obedience from his followers.

The wond risk man who controlled the Brothers of the Legge had all the characteristics of a great leader. In another spile ie he would have made a director of armies second to a me, for he had a strong and abiling faith in his own parts, and control over others which was almost unbounded. He could real at a glance the immet soul of a man of weaker mind, and had a fain to his will.

Tals was the man who fixed Thomas Elliot. But, the year gumen, tree, was one of these self-relient natures which lead to make, in I yet he feet in some degree the magnetism of tals great rull his pressure.

"You have some how we shall with men who break faith with us," said the call it. "You will know by this that traitors have but little chance. Since the band was founded, sixteen years and, it it wo men have been faithless. The fate of the car year have so ne-but the other—"

"Wing of the other?" -il Ellist.

"There are his hows!" was the quiet reply. "No man companies. We have agants everywhere. I hope you will make up your mind to be one of us. You will be assured of it is, and when you have served the proper apprenticeship of any point had no mindes, you shall have a mission to the hand. Say you will be cast of us."

"I would die first."

&quot;Den't decide too same. I have an interest in you. I scilen meet one who does not bend to my will mere early than you do. It is better for you to give up. If you do not, you die."

" I shall never join you....

" I will give you until to-morrow to decide,"

" I ask no time."

"You will need it to prepare for the great change," said the chief, solemnly. "And now you will be led back to your coll."

I will speak to your companion alone."

"What's the use of that?" sail the Yankot. "Dat dew that Let Tomniy stay."

"Remove Mr. Elliot," said the chief. " L. t the other stay."

"Wal, if a feller is as sot in his way as gener', 'tain't no use tew git up one's back about it. Have it your own way; but it ain't fair."

"What isn't fair?"

"Never yew mind," said Josh. "Jist drive on with year faneral, of that's your profession."

"Answer my question, fool."

"That yew go ag'in; git mad in a minnit. I knew yew would. They allers dew who hain't got sent enough to est pickles without red pepper in 'cm. But I say, cit wher—dm't go, Tommy, boy—'tain't fair for one man to be have his own darned way all the time. Say what ye choose about it, 'tain't fair.'

"Remove Mr. Elliot," said the chief, once more. "I stall have something to say to this person."

The young man was led out, leaving Josh shivering on his stool. In truth, he did not like the nonner of the chief. His reckless way of firing pistols had a time Y order a did thin. He regarded him as a man carely a of human lift, with him extremely desirous of retaining the viril span, he did not care to remain in that dangerous vicinity. Dut, he was in the in, and exact the last of a body of the last dangerous vicinity.

"Now, my man," sail the chief, "what are your in the re-

Prin' leve? That's a posty question to the Wistin pulled, twisted and yan'ted intow this step is the action of any constite? A proty question to ask me, of the action bear I defined for the Pris Level what have been at the form of the protection of the protection op n peur shop and I'll show yow how to whip a cat-tail into

"My men did not bring you into the sierras," said the Ci.i.

"That's thew. But I gues a man can dew as he durn pleases about whar he goes."

- "Pulls on a set into trouble by the exercise of their right," replied the chief. "You would have done well to remain a San Francis to, or better still, at home."
  - "There's just what I say! See here, Mr. Robber-"
    - " What did you call me?" :
- "I don't know what two call yew, darn me if I dow. I'm is a fix, anylow. Wal, equipp, I'm sure that's a good name. I can't say no fairer than that, can I?"
  - " Go on."
- that, and yew wouldn't let me."
- "None is. I me in, tell your story."
- "On, I was a in tew say that I remarked tew Sary Ann, jate is to I cam away from home:
- " Sury Ana, ser I, 'I don't like this at all. I want tew say tow hom."
- "Sezsier, 'Yew old fool, if yow don't git out'n this kitchen quite then yow hen say seet. I'll pell every hair out'n yer hell at heart hair out'n yer hell at heart hair out'n yer.
- "Atter that, I had tow much regard for my disply tow stay. So I out which is Californy. I ought tow lev stail tow ham, I have."
- "Meant in a mal prelicument, Mr. --- I did not est
- "I we in your heal in. I wish any body had it but me. I'm si a and the letter this high of business—the law death. I'd to a any thing town git out. Say, mitter; I min't no new town your inc. Let me go, can't you?"

"Italian in the work of the manner of the month of the manner of the month of the manner of the mann any harm comin' down thar. Tommy said he wanted some one tew go with him, and I thought I might as well go as anybody."

1 . 1.. 1. 1

"You see the result of your hardihood. Doubtless you have looked your last upon the sun in heaven, for I don't if my men will receive you as a member of the band on may terms. You killed one of them and maimed two more, and they are more angry at you than at your companion."

"Now is that fair? I only ask fer information; der yew call that fair? Tommy killed a man, tew, di in't he? And they ought tew be jest as mad at him as me. But, that's jest my luck. I s'pose they think it ain't fair tew throw stans, don't they? I hadn't no other weepons."

"Suppose they were to consent to allow you to join the band—do you think you would join us."

"Would I have tew take that oath?"

" Certainly."

- "I don't like tew swear. My father was a deacon, and he brung me up tow be careful of my words. I never here the old man swear but once, and that was when some of the boxs tied a yaller-jacket's nest tew his hoss's tail, so that he e : ] not see it. Wal, he started off kinder mo l'rite at fint, and the fust time the old mare switched her tail, she pulled out the plug the boys had put in the nest. Yew see, they time a string tew it, and fixed it so that the furt jerk would let the little devils out. Away went the old mare, and the deteen seed that the flies was pooty thick about her, but he didn't mind that, and druv on. Bimeby the mare h'istel up her hind it et and kicked the dash-board out'n the old shay, and then the deacon see the nest, and, I shame tew say it, he swere rice out loud. The minnit he did it, he felt coil shirers run threw him, and he got down and pulled off the nest and threw it away, and druv hum. Next meetin' night he get up and told them all about it, and they let him off. Britie bys used tew poke their fan at him once in a while, when he was ridin' out in the shay, and every time they said ' horners." he had to bite his lips to keep from sw'arin'."
- "What does all this talking amount to? Will you juin us if you get permission?"

"Wasn't I tellin' yew? I don't like tew swear seci. a swear as that. Them bones is mighty cold and ugly, Mister Rob— capting, I meant ter say. I don't think I'd like tew put my hand on 'em the way yew did. Say, that was a mighty nice gal yew had in here."

"What are you talking about?" said the chief, quickly.

"The gal. I tell yew, she was a mighty smart-lookin' critter. 'Tain't often yew find sech a one as she is. Say, mister, dew yew know that Tommy thinks a heap of that

En 301

"Silence, you fool!" thundered the chief, rising. "You are like the rest of your race, inquisitive, masking under the guise of stupidity a world of native cunning, which nothing can overreach. But, bear this in mind: speak on any subject you choose, but avoid the subject you just now touched on, or we shall fall out."

"I den't know what I said then tew have yew git mad," s.i.i J. sh. "I told the trewth, anyhow. It's darned hard it a feller can't say a word without yew gittin' your back up. But, see here: s'pose I say I won't join you—what will yew dew tew me?"

"Kill you!" shouted the chief, in a terrible voice.

John logical from the ground and alighted on the stool again, ejaculating, "Good Lordy!" So utterly was he delimed of speech that, after that ejaculation, he had no power to utter a word, but sat in silent terror, his teeth rattling like castle is, in spite of all efforts to keep up courage.

"Get up, you booby. You shall have the same chance as your companion. To morrow you shall know your fate.

But, first, I will show you how you will die."

"Hill on," said Josh, feebly. "I don't believe I want tew know about that. S'pose you don't tickle me, as the pig said tow the brushmaker who wanted his bristles."

"Come, I say."

"On, der. Now I'm a gone con! Say, mister, what's the test it in so derne! heigh with a filler like me? I won't that a read what I've son—not a single danc! word. I der't what to go with yew. I don't fiel very well, myself. Why chi't yew let up on me a little, say? Oh, darn it all! I'll a me. When you look at a feller like that, there ain't no sayin' any thing about it."

He followed the chief into the provice. The firmer held a torch and led the way. They tarned to the right and threaded the depths of the cavern for some distance, and at last came to a large, vaulted room, a doub, undealthy, elemate place, where the heavy moisture dripped from the walls, and a feld vapor was exhaled from all around. In the center of this black place was a dark pit, running down, and aby how how far, from which a steam was rising continually. Whatever it might be, whether vapor from a boiling spilar, or from a local other cause, no one knew. Upon the brink of this the chief passed, and lifted his torch high up.

"Come here," he said.

"I ken see it where I stand," said Josh, with an at it in it-

The look which the chief gave him compelled him to turn his relationt flet near rate the edge of the pli, and lost down.

"You so this place," said the chief, "and can tall read why so many leave displeared in these mountains at larger but a sim. This thank pit has been the grave of the year man before your time, and shall be yours to an row if you choose to be obstitute. I hope you will not. It will to be refer you to be careful what you do and say."

Held the lowell had Yankee back to the room of wellent, and cave him to the care of two grants, who return that to his pill on. The chief him off term the look before at the well-only r, and passing through a sill-cuttle—for that the himplers of wood in all the deas of throw rehe cate at a room furnished with great to be, even thy for a women' term. The girl who had with a father that so he for the trial in the conneil-hall, room from a couch the weight shot of the highest to blue. He to k off him had even so well a face in keeping with his character— back, store, related as as fate itself—a hand amplifue, to paid.

" Is it over?" she said.

"Yes," he answered. "The trains has her promise

"Did those men look on?"

"You mean the prisoners? Yes."

"What do you ment to do with the ?"

"You know car low There's the Maria Parling were not an re-unalterally fixed than mine, non-better kept. I have given them the opportunity, wanca I grant to army whose faces please me, and perhaps tooy will join the ton't. But, I for not. The young men has as shoon a will so my own, and he seems determined to brave me."

"But, Arthur, would you kill this young non if he similar Let te c'h to your terms? It would be dreadan."

Ask no questions, Inez. If he refuses, and you do not see him again, as you will not, you will know that our laws have received their due."

Her cyes began to thish.

"It would be worse than murder, Arthur."

to know me by this time."

Hip wheel, then began to pace the room with rapid steps as if tradicial decity. Then he muttered, as if communing with himself:

"It some to me as if my fate was near, and that my end is to be as tragic and gloomy as my like. I wish to that this will be treer. I wish to turn my back up a my collass clations. But what can I do? A har is on me. The memory I appared civilled har, the hounds of the has well be upon me. But I have are untry where I can be at place, and I will so it it."

"What had is that?" a ked the intently-listed again.

"The the city of Hamburg. There I have two years, principal that happing pears I have known since my children I. I think I will go there again.".

Why a t make them promise not to molest you? If they is make part have a third to far, for they will keep their word I know?

"I can not do the". The laws of the Fand will remain when I has a me. Robb Guilell, my list mant, will be capture. I seem keep my oath sacred, even though I leave here. But, all deposits on one thing."

" And what is that, Arthur?"

" Your love, Inez."

"My have! Have your dealth I that? Cruck as you are to many, to me your kindness has been that of a father, and I should be wanting in gratitude not to love you for it."

"I want you for my wife." I am not an old man. I was forty-two years old yesterday. For sixteen years I have watched you, and have seen you unfold in beauty like a flower, and have kept in heart the purpose of one day making you my wife."

"Oh, Arthur; I can not, can not be that."

"Be careful, Inez!" he said, somewhat ficreely. But instantly he changed his tone. "See what a brute I am, durling. I have frightened my bird. Sit down by me, Inez, and I will tell you something I have promised to tell you—the story of your early life."

She drew a chair to his side and sat down, evidently afraid of him.

"At twenty-three years of age," said the chief, "I was an outlaw. No matter what my crime, it was enough to incarcerate me for life within the walls of a prison. In the prison I learned two things—how to suffer and how to inflict said ring. I learned what it was to be pitiless toward my following. I was man. I went into that prison, grieving like a boy as I was over the ruined hopes of my life. I came out a man with crushed hopes, ruined in reputation, bearing a life as useless to others as to myself."

"Poor Arthur. Did you stay long in prison?"

"Not I. Before a year had passed I broke my bonds and escaped. I went on board a whiter bound for the northern seas. The captain did not use me well, and at San Francisco I deserted. I could not stay in the cities. I was slak of them. I had nothing from them but sorrow and tell. The free breath of the sierras was the thing for me. For two years I lived as a hunter of deer and small game. I had a cabin in Murderer's Cañon. Do you know where it was ball? I will tell you. It stood up on the rain of your father's land."

"My father! Dil you know my father?" .

"No, he at I have tow him. I will tell you have it I quench. A year before I came to Mandara's Callar, your father lived there with your mother and you, a year-old cabe. He had an enemy who found him out, and killed him, but your mether theolily avenged his death, and then killed herself. Two men were left of the band who attacked your tather, and one of them promised your mother that he would care for you. He did it; but, a year after, I found him on the hills in a dying condition. I aided him, and took you to my heart. What you are, you owe to me and me alone, t You can not rob me of that thought."

"I be not with to, Arthur. The poor orphan thanks you it in her heart. You have preserved her from all harm, and

- ... o a - all that side is to your care."

- "The cld name give you to me," said the chief, "and I take a year up as my child. At this time I began to make all als in the shras. Men who were outlawed began to flock to Mariner's Calin. They heard that I always gave shelter to such. At this time the thought came into my mind to make of these persons a great brotherhood in crime. The pergess till in with my plans realily. You see the result. For the last eight years, while I saw you growing in beauty and that you to love me, and that we would go away, and be very in py in another land than this."
- "Arthur, ye i do not know the pain it gives me to tell you that can never be."
  - "Inez, be careful I'
- "I must speak the truth. I have revered you as a father. You must not hape that I should ever love you in any other way."
- "I want much lot the li's all the chief, hoursely. "I have been guilty of great crimes. Do not force me to a feed r."
- "Application very coines of which you speak are the continue to I can not marry a man who has the state of interest the lupenties had and soul. For the I I can appear in the guilt."
  - "Innocent blood?"
- "Yes I desired every thing but undermately falling in a later of the Arthur, which men in the interest simply because the later than its I to the interest and a cit which you so unjudy by the arthur and the later to be the judy later. Here now, when I will you to set them at liberty, since you mean to leave the band, you put me off with the pitiful plea that the land must be considered before all else. Set these men free. It will be the beginning of a course of good deeds which shall, in some degree, at the for the acts of an ill-spent life."

"This from you, Inez! I thought no one living dure's y such things to me, and yet I hear them from you, and can not answer you. I am weak as a little child. In z, if I set these men free, if I cut all connection with the cvil past, will you love me? Will you be my wife?"

"You ask too much, Arthur. Ask me to go with you wherever it is your destiny to wander, and I will obey you as a daughter should. But, that is the dearest tie that ever can exist between us."...

His eyes began to gleam like hidden fires su ldenly revealed.

"That will do, girl. You have said enough. Then know my purpose. You shall do as I wish, and these who have broken in upon us, if they do not consent to join us, shall meet the fate our laws decree."

He dashed on his mask. She tried to step him, but he pushed her rudely aside, and rushed from the room, baring her filled with dismay.

CHAPTER XI.

THE CONSUMMATION.

The Regulators were not idle all this time. They sow with great so from the disappearance of their Ratemant and the Yankee, but, like true men, set at work to find means to set he after. The captain was in great grief at the loss of young Litiot. The brave followinal been like a year of the relation and the strong-limited Main for a long time, and the strong-limited Main for the first play in a souling the roothers in their strong-hold. The main of ranch latters, which they have over the face of the chirt in such a way that they could easily ascend and descend. When all was ready, a grand of the was left in the ravine, that no one should disting the helbers; the rest descended. They knew that there was a few samewhere in the inside wall of the preciped, he where, none could determine. Everywhere it seemed but a read askining wall of solid quarts. The captain went along the wall, straing it, and intently listening after every blow to associate was any indication of a passage. He was displaced. Every part of the wall rung as true as if it were solid throughout.

"Strate," sail the captain to his men. "I can't make it

( '.'.')

A learly laugh from within the mountain was the only answer to this admission.

"It is plain that the rascals are on the watch. By Jove, we will have them out of that. Speak very low, boys. Don't let them have a word we say. Do you mean to leave Tommy Elliot in their hands?"

"Never," cried the men.

"Ving". It's a him they have got a lurrow somewhere here, the is to the trief it. Where are the clars you found on the shelf?"

" Here, sir."

The min in aght forward a number of picks and drill, which has been the belge, as if the robbers had only just at a land werk.

"At that wall, by, and so if you can find a hole."

The points of drills were at work in a moment, guided by singular so. Her helf an hour nothing was heard but the singular shoot the wall before them, so aching for the passes his an road to The evening was coming on. Just as it was point but, ensert the drills soldenly display of them the model to the waller. The monodednot to the jet of he is a little to his mother soir but a drill and into a little to his mother might be, they be in a little common. But it was impossible to make the attack without the magnification and the translation that the fine the chief rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only her chief rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only here, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in only hards, the rashed out of the presence of Incoming in out of the presence of the presence powder in the opening they had made, ready to blow up the secret door. When all was prepared, the Regulators left the pit, with the exception of the captain, who remained to light the slow match. The men were making torches, and getting their weapons ready for the final assuit.

The chief, in the mean time, had litted the curtain of the room in which the young Regulator was confined, and looked in on a strange scene. Two men were struggling for life or death upon the floor of the cavern, and a third sat on a small bowlder of quartz, a little way off, regarding the struggle with a benignant eye. This cool individual was our friend Jose. One of the fighting-men was Elliot, and the other, as be was turned to the light in the struggle, showed the livid face of the Mexican, De Castro. Surprise and anger for a memorial held the chief dumb, that one of his men should dare to anticipate his vengeance, but his next thought was to let them fight the battle out. In either case it was a gain for him. The Mexican was not a man to be trusted, and the young R raistor was much in his way. If De Castro killed him, Laz could say nothing, as the Mexican had good cares to hate him. He sat down on another bowl ler and watched the varying fortunes of the fray. Neither of the prisoners had been being, a circumstance which De Castro had forgotten when he stile in to take vengeance on the American for the torture-test on the sierras. Josh, confident in the powers of Tomany, had taken no part in the struggle, but acted as a sert of refree. He kept up a running fire of comments throughout the straggie.

American citizen with a knife, will yow? What need a knife tew yew, ch? Hullo, mi ter? How are yew? Red need to nice little scrimmage, I guess. Never some soch a contract yew? What dew yew think of the way Tourny his with his left, say? Wasn't that a party nice lick he got in that the easy? Don't you think he's party good for the last as in the threat of the Mexican with a grip which nothing he to the could unclose. The strength of that grip cased the time of the fellow to protrude from his march, and all lish whiteness to creep into his face. The chief saw that it was time to interfere. He rase and tore away the hand of Elliot from the throat of D. Carro, and suffered him to rise. Elliot also rose, not in the bast injuryl, but with a face this had by exercise.

"What does this meen, D. Castro ?" eried the chief. "Speak the truth, and no prevarication." .

"I have no wish to prevariente," said the Mexican. "I came here to kill him."

" For what?"

"He is my enemy.".

- the band." .
  - " So am not I."

" What has he done to you?"

De Castro le l'I up his still swollen and discolored hands.

- "You can see for yourself. By his order I was tied up by the thum's until I confessed where the band lay, and agreed to lead him to them."
  - " And did you ?"
- "I bed them till I get an exportunity to chape; but, I told them tiling of this cavern."
- "G l. But you must not take justice into your own links. It is in that we have how, and that they are as iming on me as on the poore time into rot the Learner. You shall have all justice. I had not heard of this outrage to you."
  - "Thanks, writhy chief. Have I permission to retire?"

" You have."

The Mexican slunk out with a molevolent of once at Illiot, who had colorly so ded hims if upon a stone, and was arranging his distributed claims. He molt be slightly to the chief and said:

"It is not yet morning. You promised to give us till

"Character has been it in any for you to do-Character," all the child "We man there your masser to p."

"Yer have mine air wiv."

"B; i .. I to r; .. t it."

"I will n t j in y a."

An exultant look came into the eyes of the chief. He had hoped that the young man would continue obstinate, and give him a chance to distroy him, as he chall now do. The nation of the man was bloody. With the single except in eachistove for Inex, he had note of the will of ham in his basis in his botom. Human life was a slight thing in his hands. Doubt was to him an eternal sleep. He never slept has quittly from the fact that he had killed a man half an hour to fore he retired to rest. The neute Yankee saw the look in his face.

"Make him heep his promise tow yew, Tommy. He said he'd give yew till mornin'," said he.

"Be silent, follow," said the chief. "Speak for yourself.
What do you intend to do?"

"Me? I'm goin' tew join yew. I'm g in' tew to a rebber. I've get conceienshous scruples a in' bein' shet the w the head-and put in a hole."

"Very well. You may termin here until mornist, when the outh will be a laminist and to you. As if a year out, and any let him come with me."

He drew a pistol from his bolt and size I to EU, the follow him. Tommy row, and billing the Yankes a car it is farewell, left him blubbering one the stone, while he is limited the dark-browel man to his doom. As they preselent into the half the curtain of the room of Inex was like I, and she came out to me t them. Tommy thought she is he is not be cutiful than ever. The traces of recent teas were on her checks, and she threw here if at the fact of the chick

"Spare him," she sobbed. "You can not have the health

"Out of my way, Irez. Get back to your rem. Your have no business here."

you the daing to prove the interpolation to the who low, who is traverse a man in the color line. The line is a man in the color line. The line is a man in the color line. The line is a man in the color line. The line is a man in the color work as it comes to our hands."

"You say nothing," will her, appoint to hill to "You to not even and for your like at his hard. I in wathran," "Dorr hely," said Elliot, "if the thanks of one who is it of ath, and whose burden you have made lighter by your kerings, at this list hour, can be of any use to you, take mine. I shall go to my death as to a welding, and in dying, the picture shall be always before my eyes, and it shall be jumes, as you look now, asking for my life."

"Beg for your own," she sobbed.

- "I can not do that, even for you. This man wishes for my like I, and he will have it. Let it be so. I have little to gain in living. I am one of those whom fickle fortune has not be of all my friends, and for your kindness I am not ungrateful."
  - " Come on," sail the chief, waving the pitol in the air.

"Stay, Arthur. Let me entreat you once more to-"

"You waste your words. Come on, boy. Your death is certain. I understand her interest in you now."

" Arthur !"

At this moment a fearful explosion shook the cavern to its very center. The mine of the Regulators had been sprung!

"What is that?" cried the chief, pausing with his hand in a the hill of the pistol. The tample increased, and the city of weap ns, the cries of men in mortal agony, and the half of heavy belies, could be heard in the dark passages.

would not leave me." The hoys are here! I know they "Bail to your room?" sail the chief, in thumbring tones, "Say the mutal I return, Incz. You, sir, return to your Yell which L. Year dom will not be long delayed."

Well the world he deried away. Dijot, leoking about it if rower, englit up a scort iron bar which by upon to the heart of In 2's room. Sachail her hand up a like am and the red him not to go.

"The beginning the walk," sail Illiant. "They med me" me—stay—stay!"

He turned to her with a smile.

"To on harly alt me my thing I would not do, but I have no bring dishener on the name I bear."

"You do not know the power of these men. You can not pass them. They lie between the door and you."

"I can not go back," said Elliot. "I will break through their ranks."

"If you will join in this fray, follow me, and I will lead you to your friends by another route. You can evalle the Brothers."

" Lead on," said Elliot.

The girl turned into her own room, and Elliot followed. But they had not gone ten steps when the Yankee had joined them.

" What do you want here?" sail Inez.

"Goin' with Tommy, in course," said Josh. "Don't waste time foolin'. Show us the way. I heard what you said to him. Josh is himself again!"

She caught up the torch burning in a niche, and I is them into a narrow passage which opened into her room at the lack. All rapidly advanced, Josh stopping just long enough to a fire a bar similar to the one with which Elliot had armed himself. Five nanutes brought them to the main passage, in the room of the Regulators, who were driving the Brothers 1 fore them.

The assault had been so sulten that the rufflans where it is by surprise, for they had not dreamed that the Rocalities would blow up the door. One thing was not little in the them fight, and that was the presence of the chief. He justed his man just as Elliot appeared him the other callet the presence, followed by the Yankee. Both pushed their way at once to the front rank. The brave girl, too, southt to keep close to Elliot's side, as if to perioh, should be fall. A ranger put out his hand and stopped her.

"the back, little one," he said. "The balls are thing thicker than hail."

"Take her out of danger, Bats," shouted Eller, In the mill tof the cheers with which the men energy blance "Systematical that she comes to no harm."

"I will not go bed," said haz. " Let me raid. I em

The man hesitated; but reing her saidy on a line a place where she was sheltered from the inject the of the roblers, and at the same time was witness to the battle, Bates left her to mingle in the fray:

One by one the Brothers dropped and died. The chief showed an undannted spirit. Though wounded, he stood in the front, disputing every inch of the ground. He had emptied his pistols and ritle, and was using the latter as a mace. The Regulators shrunk before the blows he dealt, and looked i rammann sum general to oppose him. He was seen found, ir Cattin Luce, snatching the bar from the hand of Josh, rashed at him, whiching the iron about his herd as if it were a feather. An outlaw threw himself before him, but went down, his skuil crashel like an egg-shell by a single powerfail thow. The rittle of the chief was broken at the stock, Lit the barrel was a fearful weapon in such hands, and clashed aziast the tar with a firee which nearly tore the weapon the captain's hand. But, Lane recovered himself, and g.v. b. k birw for blow; a better match for the chief could n the men on both sischer letheir lethers. Manather man droppel, and yet the struggled two nathe two giants continued. The forthule "it a cilium a cry of admiration even from las enc-1.1. But the great number of the rangers insured their

The resolute objects a quick planee about him; only the of his mental their feet. He knew that all was lost; when, sold also puchering all his mighty strength, he broke the right the distillable I ranks of his enemies, and darted the right espectation. They he ad a shrick, and, I wing the body ground, H list sprung forward, just in time to seath objects round. H list sprung forward, just in time to seath objects into the passers, holding Inex in his rans. John Sampkins and two of the rangers followed. Hen a last taken a torch from one of the men, and hurried the They come up with him, standing that and bloody, on the body of the range of the relief to the convenience of the property of the grasp.

The state of the state of the part of the

her into this pit."

The your resident in herror. The expression of the chief's three was frightful.

"I meant that this girl should be mine," said he; "and she shall. In life or decth, she can be no other's."

"Malman!" cried Elliot, "let her go free."

"Fool! do you think I trained her up to less her? No; we either die together or live together; you may take your choice."

While the two were talking, Simpkins slipp 1 or at the class of the cliff, and, walking on a narrow ledge, out of signi of the chief, reached a point just in front of him. The chief having turned to address Elliot, was taken by supply when the Yankee suidenly role, chaped his arms alout his ligs, and tripped him up. Before he could recover hims it. In-z had struggled from his hands and ecopel. He root quickly, and made a savage rush at the Yankee, then standing on the very brink of the chasm. Josh, evidently anticipating as much, steeped sublenly, and the outlaw, with a rand nawl, pitched head ng into the bottomics pit, never a in to be seen by montal eye. Uttering a piercing shrible, Inez dropped to the ground in a swoon. Carrying her beit to her own room, the young officer went to look after his wealth i men. Among those killed on the side of the roll as they full De Castro, who had fallen under the powerful arm of Law.

Not a man of the League had escaped. The head give, the life of the body was gone also, and the Brithers of the League were broken up forever.

Captain Lane went to Inca when all was ever, and the rangers were again camper in Monlecer's Callen.

"I am a men without horsehold ties," he said. "I have no children syou have no home. Will you be a darint r to me?"

And In z, moved by his kindness and interest, a real, with tears of joy at the coold Providence which sent her help with it was most needed.

The secret of the veins they had hard in the can a was casily explained. The cavern run that, a this post in of the hill like a har years), and there were many small apart to the, which a person on the ordile would not be apt to the land which could be made use of with imposity by a pass in institute of the course who warned them of their dancer was Hard herself, who have without the Mexican would be tray them.

. In a few months, Lane left California for ver, and Incz Weth with him In the try thoughts she burned to the D. it so well that the putting grave them he attelt some. Lart dal trin Bein, and Inzlaminalization in the Albert Six II. Stills where, they had to be well to J. T. Miller Callettick. They had formal Mentert's ( Table, illy men in wold, and both and make a torum.

At he day a caller, when build asked Inda to be it's wire, sir did not say no. Josh was at the wedding, as also was his better hall, the rabilitable "Sary Ann," who appeared in a grant as will eit a thuning pattern, enjoyed the working italia in it, and went hour to ted her neighbors hew kindly and had because it I by the "Beston Paks," and how they

zal" l. r.J - 1 Vran Les Liene as Mr. Elliot."

He hard and use of his property, and became one of tion in and hard the very year they paid a The Day well well the last the great of the Dill to i. ! Mis. E... twiss.into make Sary Ann cry by telling her had in the life The Year of wearen had a in regional de la la la siere l'internation de la serie de la la California

THE END.

BEADLE'S DIME NOVEL SERIAL.

THE SILENT HUNTER;

OR,

THE SCOWL HALL MYSTERY.

This powerful romance of Indian and Feontier Life was commenced in Beadle's Dime Novel No. 141, (The Helpless Hand, by Captain Marne Reid,) and is in addition to our complete Novel. It will be continued in our regular issues, making a complete Novel and continued story for Ten Cents.

Brack numbers can be procured at any Newsdealers; or by sending to

BEADLE AND COMPANY,
GENERAL DIME BOOK PUBLISHERS,
No. 118 William Street, N. Y

THE SILENT HUNTER.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE VISITORS AND THE DEN.

ALL was hushed and still in the tavern of the Frog's Hole; the mistress of the house had retired to the limit of the house had a limit of the house to the house to the house had survived to a term of the house to the house had survived to the house had retired to the house and low—an unnatural stillness at all nature; there sat the sat is a pipe between his teeth, a pipe between his teeth, in the sat with all the pale moonlight; and the moonlight; and the weak! What a time the girl is; the moon's been up ever so it in the moon's been up ever so it in the moon's been up ever so it is the moon's been up ever s and have the transfer had Other. In was the state of the the same that the same that the same that the in his have an in the would ... i that to the time the filter '.. : tamily-allowed : ... be asked, permitted in the second contract to the second sat himself cosily in his arm-chair, hold up his hand, and turned the noch of the bettle toward his man. He then took up the bank per, and seemed very match surpr. od to had the contents of his pr. od to had the contents of his which was the rest extraordinary, which was the rest extraordinary, as, in his pres his sagarious has in the july landlerd had omitted to draw the cork.

Ralph. "Whisky—I say, whisky—mind you, whisky grows—I believe that it—grows weaker—every—day. The worst of it is, old boy, water don't grow any stronger. I should say the world's coming to an end!"

After this speech, which was directed to the bottle, Ralph remained musing for some time, his eyes fixed vacantly on the whisky, trying all the time, he declared, to explain to himself how it came about that the stuff was so weak, when he said bottle had been about the limit of the latter had a second as the had a second as the had a second and the latter had a second as the had a second a second as the had a second a second a second a second as the had a second a se

" He chaline is wind

i = 11. 11?

A chuckling laugh was the only reply verifies following.

Ralph Regin looked across the table, and in a chair, sitting in an easy posture, was a man. He was an odd kind of man, too. He wore a red, pointed chin, and a pale face, and eyes like glow-worms in a gunbarrel, and saw-like teeth.

"Now, then, old fellow," said

"drink!"

"I've got no glass," replied

Ralph, mechanically.

What do you want with a glass, the little want with a glass, the little want with a glass, off the neck of the bottle, and swallowing the contents at a draught.

Ralph, with all the eagerness of the from," continued the other.

"Who is to pay?" asked Regin, with a glimmering of the landlord still about him.

social. Now, then, Dinah, another bottle, "sold the stranger to the old negree, who had suddenly appoint i on the peared on the cene.

"All right," repeated the other, with a drune in handh, "it's all right! Who talks about paying?
—it's prime," and he smacked his lips with infinite relish.

You taste it now," said the newcomer, with a knowing wink.

"Ye-es," graped Regin, with tears in his eyes, "it's mater hot-it barns me I'm on the ."

-warms the heart, my boy," repeated the other.

"Well, it is rather strong," inother-I'm awful thirsty."

The other langhed heartily, and pure I him out a second tumbler, which did not a mignific sections,—in fact, it was quite deficients.

"It's prime," roared Ralph.
"Prime!, rich! glorious!—I say, old boy, sing us a song."

Don't know any," replied the other, in a tone which seemed to prove that if he did, it was not desirable he should recollect one just then—the harmony of a man after his potations not believed the high-

"West, the made a note; any thing to be so mile, the

The man har the landing to labor with his

By the way," sublenty aid thalps the lin, partting his left foretinger to the same sads of his took, "who are your?"

"libedd hitah wer, I'm - ....

11 11

in the chair, the tallow candle bottle stood before him uncorked, and somebody was knocking stoutly at the door.

"Coming! coming!" he said, pering remaind the room, a little more sober than three hours before. "Can it have been a dream?—was it? . Ha! ha! ha! it was the demon of the drink. He often comes now, that's what makes the whisky so weak. I've dreamed a good deal of him lately. Coming, coming!"

"Orr rite," said a husky voice without, "but the kevicker yer comes the better."

Regin, laying down the carried with alarm, "that voice! Am I dreaming still?"

"Now then!" cried the other, with the richest Cockney twa.

solden voice; "we still an entity, we still the transfer to th services it is table rial, strainmention strong and Communication and sality he could, as he unbolted the door.

"It is late," said the traveler, entering; "we lost our way in the ware, and war in his late as here."

replied Ralph, surveying to the the problem to the state of the second to the second t

the chart, and de l'and in the

( , , , , , , )

Yh in the ear of Andrew retired merchant, trembling me every limb.

"If that arn't Hackett-eh," he added, rolling on his bench as the other returned, "ain't I tired-no I ain't, not at all. If you please, master landlord, you ain't got a bit of a hossier about, have ye?-Committee the tili timed hours .... wn them blessed steps!"-

Well, I reckon I'm hoss and hossler too," said Ralph at random; "so I'll put the hoofed crit-turs right."

these words he went outside the door and left the master and man plane -- line in the law (interest), "are you sure of what you say?"

" Jr. - 1 - 1 - 1 hand at 1.15 voice," said Ragg, positively; "it's guess like them sailors we see'd down at Boston-but it's Hackett, as sure as your name is Carstone. Mum! Here comes one of them Llacking-pots."

by the transfer of the little best of the termination of the state of the Constitution of the contract the line ir. i. trail. - it he hesitated. He have nothing of that a, of the force of men whom the The state of the s the second to the first ------

THE WAY LINE WAY . . . . . .

'Tis well she thinks herself older than she is, Can that villain Barton have taken her away?-the hinte. He had beffer beware, That girl is a fortune to me -so long as she lives, I receive my pension. I will not part with her. And yet, my wedth is great. could so where I am not hrown. I centulive repreted in Canada, in Virginia, and leave that wearisome woman behind. But I have married her -bair! She hates me and will not press that claim! But they seek vengeance. So ho, my masters, ye must find pretty Kate first, and she comes not to-night. The wild creature has, perhaps, camped at the hut. 'Iis certain -I see by the moon 'tis past midnight. - She has quareled with the squire—I fear I said too much about him-I began to fear her faney would grow too serious for change. My hints about his evil reputation told perhaps too much. Andrew Carstone fell into the Nobody ever heard of the fuaris in which have neval of his wife! He forgot that. us Leanethink of my own as ( ... ; II - ; - - | ... ; to rs. Why did I quit the road? There, ir hearties, caf your fill - your War is the first to a first to a first tare to ? while the !? In the Chirle dell, and be the feet topented? Your gentland in an odd rascal. If so, I had be conference in the about or then, , tir - the tit the time! ( all i a fi to a 100 1. 1. 16 1 7 1. -- 1 1 1 1 1 Y - 1. . . . 1 Live to the late of the littly are a littly " if I had not 1 1: 1 1: 1 1: 1 1: lambia lander - land I had de in done, and he was near dead, and I wanted anoth and in fir for It-in. And then I do cherish that girionce I quite loved her-then she thought me her father. Drink, drink, drink, that ruined all. I told her the truth one day, that ... has inted me ever smee. . . . 'tis a weary, weary life. ' - I'- . wer as and see how and se south high thank it, conce to their the road; awake, and be a man. They wait."

And ceasing his disjointed talk, which had continued while he descended the steps, taking the horses to the sheds, and civing them food, he once more turned toward the house, turning over in his mind the wisest plan of escape from the consequences of his past crimes, which had served him so little for warning, that he had recently attempted to murder the predeffer.

He rejected the only truly wise one, telling the truth; at all events until he should have found it impossible to do otherwise. Time, impunity, and drink, had hardened at it deacened his heart. There was scarcely a corner left for any soft or kindly emotion.

the found Corney Ragg and Andrew Carstone cating and drinking lake men who had traveled for, and he merely pointed out what was plentiful in the place, and then retired into a corner, where he sat down, and closing his eyes, appeared to doze, while the travelers were finishing their supper. The old negress all the while bustled about, growling between her teeth at the way in which she had been roused up to wait upon the new-comers.

About twenty minutes later, Andrew Carstone intimated that he had finished his meal, and asked

Was to be could sleep.

"Well, I calculate I can find a bod or two," said Ralpa Raja Rajin, noing; "the Prog's Hore is gan't rally considered in durst-rate."

replied the merchant, as careassly

as let ( ) ald.

"This way," continued Ralph, rising sleepily and rubbing his ly was very tired and inclined for rest.

"I guess you'll want a room.
tu?" asked the landlord in an off-

"I'm not partikler, never was;

so as I sleep, it's orrrite—anywere 'ell do:" and Cornelius Ragg, who had spared neither beer nor whisky, prepared to follow.

Raiph Regin took up two tailow candles and led the way. He ascended the steps already alluded to, but instead of turning to the right toward the room formerly occupied by the peddler, he pushed open a door facing the stairs, which revealed a passage of some length, out of which several other passages branched.

yours," said Andrew, secretly much surprised; "you can sleep a regiment."

"We gin'rally do sleep a few," replied ladph lagra, in a lamine and obsequious tone. "This is a good room. There ain't no curtains, but that are a bedas is commended fortable, stranger."

"Thank you," said Carstone, as he entered the room.

It was a small, square place without any window, receiving air and light in the day from a kind of fissure in the roof. On all sides the walls were of legs, with the stall up the interstices, but a glance at the roof showed at once that it was a compartment in a cavern.
The bed was a kind of shelf raised on logs, with straw and horsecloths. On these Carstone at once cast himself, and wearied, exhausted as he was, after a tervent prayer for the streets of his niteria, tell hist in the streets of his niteria, tell
hist in the streets of his niteria, tell

Corney Rang followed Hairh a little farther down the passes until he came to a door a and ginto a similar place, which he can tered writtent a sign of saspect nor combt, took his calme, which the other good highly pasted at threw him ed on the late of the instant, however, the coor was closed behind him, he, with at the sight of heavy late of his chown it is and him if on his carowanth tends. He had a tinety heaved a heavy had been a content and a content of and which cut is a content of an and which cut is a content of a content of a content of an analysis of a content of vented all exit.

Restricted to the second of the self-term of the self-ter

He lest to the print, and the thirty of the last the last

Harian I and the late of the have a series of the series of in the second se e the trate Comment than a ... ... He made sure of t - (-, - i 1) - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 Carlotte and a second second there .... a just a just is of a chisel, and a number of skeleton . . favor, from . knowledge of the character of Committee of the second of the -----a me of the first trace y.

somewhat suspicious professional implements. warrior to oversloop limitelf on such an election. He substituted by declar dithat he did not stay in do the day two hours on his hed, and out that when he impedite, the relation at discount le took. He had taken the precaution to light his oil lamp in the harden, so that he now and elicit the can ble, and proceeded a

1.1 1-11 --.

After a careful gramination of the door, he came to the conclusi n tant to saw a sprare hole, large en a de la part las laral through, was the best plan of opcontinuent and coing a name of for words and prody wit, her at one began to put his plan into examtion. An auger some mabled him to make a hole, through which his long thin saw could penetrate; and then, having well greased that useful instrument, he began to work steadily, and yet with extreme caution. Every minute or so he listened attentively, and finding that no alarm was given, proceeded with his task.

On all eftle plant, which was crossways from side to side of the door, had been completely sawn ti all, and the second second in the later was a set to be to the wood to fall in, when Ragg distinetly heard a noise. He quietly withdrew his saw, blew out the e. le, closed the dark-lantern, and put live or to the price was an sound of hear; but cautious steps . which came which the passage, at le letter that I have come a be Late I. Take the best ways conserthe army the arms of the fitting of the lite ett," said Corney Ragg, shaking his head.

Constitution in the listened again. The landlord

Cpps l'a direction from that by which he came. Con less Ress Whited a means to the means to off the pire of word, put his Land through, miss litter are sail the boilts, and with his two pistors in his belt, his lant on in our band. and the cross carslangenthis right wrist, he deri dont into the paseage just in time to each trace impact of Ralph Regin disappearant up a flight of stees about thirty feet White l.

Corney Ragg, determined to you train the mysters of the place, followed with at healtst an His hall at sight of the ruthinpropri tereditie l'esg's H le, wie so as I to have improved the naturaladvantage of the boality to a degree that would have been sur-I coming had not his lot fr il to b there is protect win dit.

Bater this Consyltaged dust think. Allerented for was to had out what the ex-highwayman was really along

He trad continuty along the ellip, errat. rabitirelamet, agent the wholl the red, and While officerille little the the the are all that the talk of the ny na desta to assist the eradiogstirs with the are tion, and found have it in a few From this, at the month of a bight eless the there is table to the con-Maria de Carrier de la late Carrier Her i. out to the interior cut of a set at the transfer of a set of the a mercial to destruct the activity. the of a deer of the feet of the part of the ease, but don't be thy a str i retit. da. le da tris et of M = 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 - 1 lead and the same the Inches.

to tall of the state of the late of the la Here the second second over a hole. Then Corn live Rang saw him charvas mall by free ales I chet, this later the seems the KINN DO DO DE TO VERT BLOOM IL down nich ether money, aller which hade the last the over the Lele at the Lant to rice.

Cornellas gave line no tracto ertelt bien, beit titer I beek, etch received his foom a registrate. sible, quite sati-ii d wall the discovery he had make.

He slept sont in and made morning, with and full or distarbare the little Hew the to lave his porter to the new ter free, when be alvolve, a crept out caration sytolican lie Calmetly saw that are not accortry with him to a to be I to the deal of the bearing which he Leave of Marchael House Conthe thy content there are deal of a new y 11. 11 1.1.1.

It was quater which that It in l. of positional action and area. s. Fit 1 sti tott, in the heat.

It so quirty pate that the tre, sing to station, and In the first of the print We to the transfer to the second st . val. d. t. g., L' . . . . . . contact the transfer to the t was in the center of a thicket.

( · 11. ) 11. __ ( . 1 : 1 · : , : · · · titule to the same of the contract of the cont lithing head general a t Mark the territory that is to be 44 hi h 7.

we did to the to the to the to Word Harris Harris State In the Altin Com ling Part to be in the late of t and he sime determination for I, which thereing, and allers Hole on a secret expedition, in which Regin was concerned, and for which the use of his house was required. This had made him, for a short time, neglect attending to the arrival of this band to a certain extent served his purpose.

the property of the property o

And Maria and India.

thus seeking to all crent motives.

CONTRACTOR OF BUILDING

 ler way for some time, and then, as if struck with a new idea, determined to pass the night in the hut, and, on the morrow, commence an expedition she contemplated. Her what she felt was an evil dream, thinking calmly and seriously, she began to see the character of Squire here is a second of the consequently, to have awakened some line structure of sympathy to have awakened some line structure.

with regret to the past hie she had been the parents. Then, who were? Whenex came she? Should she will be abandoned her, or from whom she had been forcibly taken? These were questions which came rushing with tumultuous force to her mind.

How should she begin the jour-

In the met programme the contract the it and the title and the to a little in the Mark of the In the state of the property of the Prince V. beauty of Amy Moss, Kate deterto free her from the tram-I. a Cl Later to the co. I ill the advantage I live in the _ ... intin take of the interior ic Transfer is transit to mil tell 1. N Land har a large and the transferredty secrets which Ralph had only recently learned, but which he pro-[ [ Note 2] [ ] . The late of some of The transfer of the second of the pro-Con the same to the land to the in the last water 1 2 venison in a small wallet, sallied out into the forest, in the direction of Scowl Hall.

The morning was bright and Deterist it, the tool books or all to all genial, the birds sung their tuneful 1. i , tale ( and the the said Kate, a little pale, but beautiful as usual, entered below the arches of the green forest. The path was along a slight rise, trending away toward the Moss, in the direction of which she moved for some time, int a lang to cross the Scioto at a fort, with Which she was fathiliar. The young girl, though with such little programme tof facts mounciting white min or Indian, still used many of those precautions which are induced by a border education. Her principal desire was to avoid being taken back to the Frog's Hole, a consummation to be thwar-L. Charlet IV To me

Presently she came to a small valley, inclosed by tiny hills—a circular slope of brush and trees, chomosis, chi key wooded, on the other, which was very stoop particle of the tree paces recky, stoop and target, extend to stoop and the was fringed with but his like was query acceptable of the contract was query acceptable one size of this, when here eyes caught sight of two human lightes, moving cardinally along the edge of the ridge.

but it was too late, the two men imitated her continue, at the same that is exting therein. As they do not so, Kair was able to see that

Lar, het While to he from her place of consciencity of the state of her the two waite men came boatches, windly down the step side of the glen, waving their rifles, and never landing that they stackened their pace and looked with disappointment at one another.

"illow came you alone in the woods, young girl?" said the forcmost of the two men, a handsome youth.

"I am going to the ford," replied the girl, quietly, at the same time surveying her questioner with cu-

"Know you not," continued the other, while his companion, a scout and hunter, surveyed her curiously, "that the Indians are out, and that it is dangerous to be here? The redesired are land a and slaying all they find."

"Strangers," sad Kate, in a sad voice, "unfortunately I have nothing to fear from the Indians."

"I know'd it," exclaimed the other, the one who as yet had not spoken; "you're the gal of that catercorned old white Indian, Italiah Regin, the fried of the manest man in creation, Sin n Girty."

plied Kate, proudly; "but I am house forever."

"You are she they call Kate Regin," said the young man, curiously; "you know, then, of Amy, Miss Amy Moss, of the Block?"

"You are--?" asked Kate, eager-14.

"Her brother ("......" said the young man, anversly.

with a crims on blush at her own words.

" W 11 1 3"

thought so. She is saft. The lind dates have taken her up to the great cave on the Ohio; no here is intended her, and I believe has nev would buy her; but I as not have how the hour to the bon't ask me any questions—but I have something to discover, and I have something to discover, and I have something to discover, and Moss; "your present journey has

The state of the s

"Of white man e. Lim ! Comin 5, just aling mas limited , ver has L.VW.

"Them rinigades is wass than just by way of a ransom." I in the Course Man, Ita total .... In a day or two, at li. mi, I m...i i ... g you think to the :. :: ..... I: : : :: ::: 1.1::: , d) the state of the s ti i i ..... and and the great Carlot "

·· () the (blue)? Top and I Har-

T L " Yes. "

"But Custaloga?" asked Charles,

L. XIOUSIY.

"Is hanging about the Indian trail, I have heard," said Kate.

"And Harvey-Dick Harvey ?" asked the young man, musing.

than that he is a prisoner," replied Kate, evasively.

·· > 1 .. ... : 1 ... : 1 ... : ·· ... . ....

And my brother, Walter Harrod?" coutinued William, hur-· . . .

"lour brother!" I. . . . . the brother of 0 4 -

"I am, gal," said the hunter, of his gun-" I am; and the Injines had best keep out of my Fig. 1.

the same of the sa And the second of the second o in the later to Saving these words, Charles showhere's his ritle, and began once more to ascend the ridge, a short cut to rejoin the trail, which followed the skirt of the wood on the other side. They had to cross a small cane-brake and swamp, after which they again were to follow the path under the forest trees for some distance. They had got half-way through the swamp, when suddenly they all started and looked at one another with surprise and alarm. Loud bursts of laughter, cries of distress, and shouts and yells of a very terrial description, broke suldan'y upon their ears, proceeding from the wood before them. The shouts were Indian, the cries were a parently those of white men.

"What's that?" said Charles, clutching his ritle.

"Injines torturing a white man," replied Harrod, dashing ahead at once.

"Hist!" said Kate; "be cautious -the Indians are not many, and you may surprise them. Follow IIIc. ??

. in the last tell grant at 1 entition, a home been to be , Kate, who is were entirely with it has I life gran, I d the me Value Ville Propriate to the second of the format, and the many that treatening became a limited Land Warren Land Caller on the cold and to the with the wast returned when I had-It, one of the mar read dist

the state of the s rsons who were the actors in this tumultuous scene. a time, the state of the state ity, about forty yaghs distant, were Caire at Transaction White the Manual Wheels they jostled, tossed, cast backward to and fro, with loud shouts of laughter, which were answered by execrations from the unfortunate victim of their savage merriment—an individual whom none of the party recognized.

It was a man in rather a showy livery, red, and ornaments d with gold, who made desperate efforts to release himself from his captors.

"B jour, bradder-white man dance-reast presently-fine chief creating weights," exclaimed the white man; "laugh away—yer vill let tired by and by. I ven't dance—I carn't—I'm tired."

-grand-big oill er."

ting him gently with the handle gof his hatchet.

"Now, then," cried the white man, "none of yer larks—it hurts.

Vy. Statement, with your painted mugs? Yer ugly enough to be Oil Scratch; but there are too her with your painted to be oil scratch; but there are too fun," said Charles, in a low, hushed tone.

"He's a green Britisher," replied

H.r. el, coldiy.

"And are we not English—white non-(Aristians?" asked young Moss, rather in its auxily. Was not your configuration of Chrais father to High Linear, and was not Chrais father to High Linear? Let us save him."

"You're right, dr," and Harrol,

With a been of " house here"

Next the counts there exists of flame, the remains of this, start that the remains of this, start that the remains the mass that the process to have the mass that the remains the first term to entry the flament of this dat of the flament of the remains the flament of the remains the flament of the remains the remains

"Run for your life—this way!" roared Charles, showing himself for a moment.

"Orr rite," replied the other, bounding up the valley with frantic speed, as two or three shots from behind quickened his perception of danger.

In another minute Cornelius Ragg was under the cover of the bushes.

"Vell, yer don't mean for to say," he exclaimed, as he regained his breath, "that them ugly sweeps meant nuffln more than fun?"

before night,?' said Charles, drily; but keep down—your red coat is a good mark," bobbing down; "this here do! L have the land obliged to you gents—glad.

to mile your acquirite, c."

A rapid interchange of shots now followed, which, however, ther hat we a few minutes, constant the fraction for the way, which is the first distribution in the first distribution in the trail.

. "Where are you going?" said

Charles, curiously.

Well, I ain't partikler! I've just be in the limit of the plicit and the last the period of the print.

all links in secretally tothis jurney, the last last had occurred up at the last had occurred up at the last had occurred up at the last had a last had a charles

it," is it is the property; "Height of larger to the party; "Height larger La . 1 1 ( ... "

man. "Stranger, you had there a declaration to him-he is a judge -and we'll take a run up to the II the same to the same and the same Ind I. C. P. ii 'in missour a quoused of inth reve vouldn't say no more," land Man Son pausing, "here we part. Your The sight, min to the all I all I seems and the second importance for you." No. of the last of " I - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 to the terms of the second : i the forest and disap-as stillness and addressed II. 7 . ** ---uld have the state of the s at all and a second " she's vot ve're cum from I'm and the same of the same o

THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF THE

in the second second which the two listened with a reat interest, particularly Charles, whose eyes tlashed with great animation.

"Well," exclaimed the young man, "be under no uneasiness. I will take this matter in hand. In a very short time late wind by at the Moss. That Raiph Regin is a ferrilling some leed, but here, a pay for this."

"." Orr rite," said Cornelius !! ....... who was excited to a pit a cit gre t enthusiasm. "Ah, M r II mil. you'll pay your or or arter : L'

"Wins Hackele?" in ared Cl. rles.

" by, Hackett, with Revin, wire Robbs; he's as many names as a cat has lives, he has-he vos vot ve calls a highvayman."

"A pretty fellow to bring up an only child of loving parents," said Charles; "but yonder is the Moss. Let us hasten. This scouting business has made them anx-Main nodding in a in the little had the term of the two countries are in the second se at 1 the last there's there is a fire of a. . Tre ! I will.

> The strate of the south of the State They are grant in the Int of the land of the state of the respect to Harris, to a " it is a state of the state of track; It i. ... , 1 ... ; ; ; 541-17

"What of Harvey?" exclaimed Chartes, imming lou i al. i i ing curiously at her.

"Poor fellow!" said Jane, bending her eyes on the ground, and seeking to conceal, by attending to some detail of the table, the acute suffering she experienced and the tears that she could not restrain. Charles took no notice openly of this demonstration of feeling, though he thought of it afterward often, but turning to his father, informed him of the intended expedition to the cave on the Ohio.

"Heaven bless you, my son!" said the judge, who was pale and careworn from anxiety, during these few days. "But how learnt you this news ?"

"That, my dear father, is a fresh story," exclaimed Charles; and in a few words he explained all that had happened in relation to Kate,—a story which, with that of Ragg, interested both until the hour of the afternoon siesta, when the jar elay down, or rather retired in the purpose, while Charles did so in reality, after selecting the men who were to accompany him on his expedition.

Meanwhile Kate hurried along toward the ford, her ideas somewhat divided between the thought of Amy Moss, Barton, and the young hunter whose acquaintance she had so suddenly made. She could not help being struck with the manner and mien of the hand-Besting & John C Harris, Wiles or today (I Time of White Chock, Willer to Lender in Chap to on with the near star 1. It is a series of stay of the little to the to take the contract of it is good to thingshine on a new with Lorgania of operation, to not to her be the turner to this one

There was all it it in her had, when he is result that he had he is a suite of the property of the had been a suite of the property of the had been a suite of the had been a

Louis una state to sec.

Kate stood on the summit of a green hill. Here she first caught sight of the ford, and looking downward along the trail, she could hear nothing save the rushing of the river's waters over a pebbly bottom, and the occasional note of a bird, or perhaps that secret hum of life which perpetually arises over the waving tree-tops.

Satisfied, then, that she would be able to cross the ford unseen by any of the emissaries of Barton, and quite sure, from the beaten path bine her, that she was in the right track, she tripped quickly down the bill libe, and stand upon the water's edge. Warily in she looked around; then stooping, loosened her moccasins, and tucked up her dress. With e per la ratio la la la la recona con la moccasins, with the other her draw, and the speciment of the stone to stone, sometimes leaping, sometimes wading, she was soon on the other bank.

doon in these parts?" said a well-known voice, that made the heart of the young girl bound within her.

"Simon Girty!" she exclaimed, with a start, as that worthy appeared from among the trees.

ty—he ginr'lly is known about a bit."

Kate, coldly, as she continued to

-but I don't want to be. How's

Regin ?"

"I don't know," replied Katc.

Botting the Line.

going."

"I am going to Scowl Him.

-but you can wait, I dar' say. Well, good in their; I'm at their way. Hope you will be less ryled next time I see you, Miss."

And the ruthin, somewhat puzzled at what Kate could possibly want in that direction, turned his back on her, as if thoroughly discusted with her short and angry mainner. hate, who knew the man well, had affected with him a confidence to the terms of the second truch relieved when they parted company. It is true that she had i . I think may be the first the later of th for a guide; still, the track was tolerably clear, and she knew that Scowl Hall was not situated at any t mit am i dieter i firene the firet. . i. moreover, at the _ last the first that the second that opportunity of making the search successful, promised to be of great the reckless that she felt a kind of relief in the prospect of associatvalue to persons in whom she al-evil imbits which were so common the Frog's Hole; and when the Visitors became violent, would there shelter against of considerable use to her, and without which she would never have undertaken the present journey to Scowi Hall.

In a few minutes the usual signs of the approach to a plantation were seen. Fields of corn, open meadows, a few huts, were visible. Still, on the side toward the river, the wood was thick, and Kate kept on the verge of it, in sight of the trail; for she had no wish to be seen by any of the overseers, white laborers, or negroes of the plantation.

fields, but they were too busy to notice her.

. Presently the sound of the watch-dogs' barking came upon her ears, and she moved more cautiously and slowly. She was in quite a thick and tangled wood.

Suddenly she started. Voices were heard near her, and one voice she knew too well, that of him she believed absent.

the mystery of that man's life, she tened.

Phæbe," said Barton, "no sing and grumbling, are getting foolish."

m. reye.

Girty and Regin and others, to snatch Amy from that tractor,

Teeumseh. She will be here before the week is out."

"As your wife, I 'spose," said Phæbe, with another flash of the eye.

"As my wife—and hearken, Phoebe; I wish her to be my lawful wife," repeated Barton, who was very pale.

"How you manage dat, eh?"

asked Phæbe, quickly.

"I repeat, she must be my legal wife," said Barton, tiercely.

"Massa Barton," cried Phœbe,
"I know you while I, cried man;
but you no murder her."

"I don't want to murder her," continued Barton, suddenly; "who t... lof mart bang?"

" ifow else you marry Amy legal?" said Phæbe.

Barton; "I haven't the least idea; had had haven't the least idea; with Amy Moss is not a legal martine, and hant you out of Ohio with blood-hounds."

"Flog me!" screamed the woman, wildly. "Wat for ?"

too pretty to be flogged now."

The woman bowed her hed, and her add the her her had the her had the her had refer the second the peril of her own soul.

"You understand me now, I hope," said Barton. . . . .

No," said the slave, raising her land in the slave, raising her will be a supplied to the most abject of servitudes.

from the year mean?" rearel riding-whip.

The mulatto stood still, crossed rarms, and waited for the blow. had never received one before.

"Take that!" shricked the ini... rutilan.

"Coward! move and you die!"
Baid a well-known voice, while a proximity with his breast. He stood transfixed with surprise and terror, his uplifted whip in his hand

"Kate!" he cried, really alarmed at the menacing position of the gun-barrel.

"And James Barton would strike a woman," said Kate, with a bitter sneer.

ed me! Ah!" he cried, as a sudden them ha flashed are? You have been listening!"

condition."

"That condition?" asked Barton, who now folded his arms with an assumption of coolness, quite contrary, however, to his real sentiments.

and remaint to the last remains said Kate, quietly.

business is this of yours? what espouse a villain," I fail Hair.

whistle and you are overpowered.
Lift up your gun and let us talk calmly."

ting her finger on the trigger and moving back; "I have been and CICL."

rand but neather and the

At that it start, the same of the start of t vicinity is the interest with a little to the little to th intervention in her favor was likely to cost her so dear.

cost you your line. How co.

her hurriedly along toward the ing, that she could not peak. She was planning in her own mind how to escape from a fate which she knew must be serious, as the secret she had now discovered was one she knew Barton would not forgive.

wretched man and that unfortunate woman, with a calm, proud step, that showed no fear. They and led her in.

A few minutes more and Physics came out, looking about wildly the house, a shrick that awoke the echoes with its horror.

Then all was still.

CHAPTER XXIII. THE FOUR PRIENDS.

ed from his countenance. The Eccentric A. : pared to die . to the Indians any of that they are known to ex-Lerience when an enemy dies with-: . . . . . . and exhaust-The Real Property lies and the Landson teriare tarana evaluation to the die of the camp was a small, clear, where probably many a deed of blood had been done, and here they took Dick Harvey and set him in their midst. Then the whole knavish and cowardly crew commenced chanting, dancing, yellow it him, siepping every now and then to kick and beat him.

Folding his arms, Dick stood stoically resigned to whatever fate rie saw, with a burning face and the mien of an indignant martyr, however, that they were about to make him run the gauntlet, for the Indians were ranging themselves in a long double line about two yards apart, and were arming themselves with stout hickory sticks. At the end of this long human line of men without mercy, and boys more cruel still, Harvey was placed, and then a shower of blows from one of the nearest, gave the signal tor him to run. His teeth s t, his least bowerl, his thoughts more full of an guiste than at some in we crad but be a intrincus dates, he start I among waitly, eval. ; time hi as with considerabis de Me. M.

Sall his his two caught sight of the who stood a little ahead of him, and who, instructed a make easy, had in his hand a small, shand ing an, with which he intended polaries only to main—has death to stood a little and the stood and a translated to be wasted; and he distributed to be a this death.

the contact handle had the contact by the contact by who had been the contact by who had been the compact of the comp.

The literal product to the comp.

The literal product building, who had been the literal building, who had been that the been the literal been the literal been the literal been the literal been to the literal been to be contact by the literal been been the literal been liter

He suddenly turned to the left, hurled an Indian to the ground, and then away he daried toward the council house, the post in front of which was now the coveted object of his desires. A shower of the large start after him to stay his progress if possell; but, he was not to be checked by trifles. The Indians were behind him, yelling—screeching, as he would have said—like "infernal faries."

The wished-for post was not far distant, and Dick Harvey in guarto hope to rand one tall income this pert of his tradi, warm, stall tally, 1 1.1.t before him stood an Indian, who had just entered the camp, and who, casting off his blanket, grappled with the unfortunate list, and he, being out of teresta and fatigued, was easily sent to the ground. The whole I reclose gang of paragrees were upon him in an instant, and one and all began to kick and beat him, tore his clothes to ribbons, and left him on the ground unconscious and faint. Presently, however, a venete-lor all the wealth had not departed-broadt him some water and a little bread. And there he lay near the councilhouse, all but dead.

About an hour later, the savage and the wretches took him into the cold a later, the r Victing his brain a water butter to Liver of hilled at your dimension to be to be and a faction we still be the fact the lesterite del contra per divis Walled I was a brossed to like I translational. ed and the out of course, and air , of the line of mater. Dr. of there ver, the Lecentre Ariet, was Liter 11) had be but up at Italians rather with an eye to be judger-(-, we than any this got , began. to bella metal delibert bere taid barried to dility toward the in Wheels to long + to 1, arey all two tolk this it that bord is, and when hed an opportunity of experience ing to be ter feet a cray

A warrior rose, and the rest became silent, for to them one of the rich parts of such entertainments was the opportunity it offered of boasting and taunting. It Will be als to be a fact that the state of t began, and Dick Harvey well knew that the purport of his speech was death-death without hesitation and without mercy. The man showed certain scars which had been inflicted on him in battle with the whites, and as he spoke of these the expression of his countenance was perfectly diabolical. Holding in his hand a knife and a piece of wood, he spoke with animation and fierceness, and though Dick Harvey was not able to comprehend the words used, he knew very wealth ir part, The will are party applicated with figure 1 and light. The speaker finally sat down, and the old chief made a notch on the piece of wood.

and all began to kick and beat him, leading all the while at the failure of his all the while at the failure of his all the tree to ribbons, and left him on the ground unconscious and faint. Presently, however, a second a little bread. And there he lay near the council-house, all but dead.

About an hour later, the savage and limited in the white he have guessed by and limited at the savage and limited at the failure who appeared to speak on the same who appeared to speak on the same side, and two notches were marked with sears and medals, rose and pointed to the white man, so reading him. His voice was musical and him limited at the failure of them. Then an old man, covered with sears and medals, rose and pointed to the white man, so reading him. His voice was musical and him. His voice was musical and he spoke on the side of mercy, as the murmurs which arose on all sides. Instead of grunts of approval, he met with grunts of dis-war (1.2) was in the first the first the weapon violently on the struck the weapon violently on the first the ground were taken to atrike the ground were taken no note of. They were the votes for merey.

Literil.

The old chief stood up in the midst. He counted the notches. He then summed up the number of the marks he and the counted the number of the marks he and the counted the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the counted the counted the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the number of the marks he are the counted the number of the number of the marks he are the counted the notches.

Very Trail

A question now appeared to arise end the server to be scout entered the village, and made a secret communication to And becomes the 1 c :- in the excitement which followed the news thus brought. The warriors new to arms, and the execution of Dick Harvey was adjourned. It been determined to make a : . . al spectacle of the affair, ... the prisoner was therefore given in charge to a small party of five men, who were to take him time carry thither the news of a gathering of the whites, which was rumored as about to take i...reatening danger and ruin to the Indian tribes on the frontier. His arms were then bound behind his back, and his legs tied the men who i. er captors. It was a reprieve, however and Dick Harvey was not young ones of the party, the old . Ind shown any kindly THE RESERVE AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY OF THE The Part of the Pa the state of the s . i. i. . . . . . . i. . . i. d. h.s a transparent to the distriction It followed was difficult, and it was at rather an early hour that they camped under a cliff, evidently much exhausted with the events of the day. They there made a are, plied up grass and leaves, and prepared evidently for a carouse. so you consider a figure this ting the produce of poor Harrod's pigs, and an allowance of whisky, which was then beginning to enervate and destroy the red-men. While one of the party proceeded to cook their supper, the rest undertook to provide for the unfortunate white man. They took a piece of wood and stretched it across his circle, and the time to televial his hatels. They then haid another It de across this, to which has Lead at latinies were fastened, so that it was utterly in a life for had to move. This was the of their common and barbarous means of securing a prisoner.

Presently the meat was ready, and the brutal red-skins began devouring their plunder with intense satisfaction. They gave Dick one or two morsels, which he contrived to devour, as nature had exerted her supremacy, and despite his -- ----he could do nothing, put a little quite at ease as to any danger of the forest. They were . . .

seemed but a moment, and then he was awake. It was nearly day. Harvey lay about three yards from the Indians. He could not turn his head far enough to see his persecutors, but he knew by the smoke of the fire that their position was under the cliff. They had not yet moved, and Dick Harvey, a little refreshed by his night's rest, tried again to move the osier band which bound his wrist. His right hand came free away at once—the knot had slipped in the

1. ght.

At this instant a slight noise attracted the attention of the young man; he looked up and instantly recognized a white man, a tall and He was looking strangely at the Indians, and did not as yet see the ....! he instantly disappeared. In a few minutes he stalked slowly out of the forest, with noiseless step-if discovered he knew that i . . . . . trader character (it was 1...... Cook) would protect himand with a rapidity of action which Lair of the seal in the little of the .: bonds, left the knife, and retreated as rapidly as he came. In the summent it he rock, leaning on his rifle.

Dick Harvey was so stiff that f., ten minutes clapsed ere he 1. . . . difficulty, crawled to the . took up a gun, and then, C) 1: .... his blood circulati In I in agree the distribution of the bedience Lan a a consiste that there is being a property of t..... 12 1 3 1.... 1 . ... r. He 1.... 1 1. . t 5 ... a hundred yards, W. C. a cry Ciling with the material beauty with mounted. A rifle-crack guided Trees of the Property of the Property of the Parishing burn prom borners arress.

"Luin to ind light, Eliabert, turn to the right—keep the wind on yer left cheek; the trail's pretty good. Make tracks with yer old hoss," he continued, as he rode up to Dick Harvey; "thar they come."

They could, indeed, be plainly heard coming crashing through the bushes behind with loud and furious yelling.

"You've a deal to answer for, stranger," continued the peddler—"a deal to answer for. Here am I, Ezram Cook; a neutral Ingine time in the latest and a'most afeared I've shot a Ingine. Now, if one of them devits sees me, my business is gone—right away—they'll skin, tar, searity, and lynch me anyhow. But I couldn't see a tellow-critter prepared like a lamb for the slaughter."

tist, "that you don't recognize

Dick Harvey."

"My! Jehosaphat! Thin I tell you what, Mister Harvey, I don't care if the hull bilin' of the Inines sees me—I've done a lay's work—just keep that hemlock right afore you—go it, pony, jee! woh!"

And the peddler reined in as a small column of smoke rose above the hemlock.

Pontius Pilate!" cried the peddler, "if we ain't done. Ingines afore, Ingines behind. Never mind, spur away. What's that?"

A yell of a very fearful nature rose in the fearful nature ter, that Dick Harvey and the line had ever heard in the both were already to the forest. It was not an in the fearful nature the fearful nature to the fearful nature ter, that Dick Harvey and the line had ever heard in the house of the forest. It was not an in the fearful nature to the fearf cried Ezrain Cook, turning rather it rose again, that yell—once,

it rose again, that yell—once,

make the very arches of the forest

"On! on!" cried Dick, suddenly; "it is a human voice, shricking for help."

them look at one another with amazement and confusion.

The shricks had ceased an instant, and they thought that all was over.

The state of the s I amount to the same of the sa I THE RESERVE THE PERSON NAMED IN 1, 1 ----And I do the state of the state the state of the same of the same of -----Doubtless .. . . . wo. .. . mean to inte.... ".... A. .. eyes of the major recited in their sockets, his whole frame shuddered, he raised himself on tiptoe and looked uneasity around, he turned an impioring glance on Dick Harvey, who made a gesture of disgust.

Ezram Cook, gravely, "you don't mean to say you'll hang this black cretter. Consider the cruelty of the thing. Besides, he's valuable property, worth a mint of dollars. He's skeared enough—cut him away, began again to the rest that made the young artist shudder. Still he persevered and quietly disappeared along a trail on the edge of the small open space, just as the Indians came bounding up, themselves curious to discover the cause of these horrid cries, imprecations, promises, and threats, which came in a fearful stream from the negro's

Non the standard and their friend.

It is an a the dismay of redskins and the black, as four ritles to the black, as four ritles to the black, as four altered, limited, lim

this if the the ci smallening y have hardly wells count to mest us of the mid, and the body of the negro lay beside that of his allies. In a moment of eagerness he appeared to have moved too rapidly, and the wood to have slipped from under his feet. Not one of the four had intended the death of the pegro. They simply intended to obtain from him, by means of terror, a confession of his accomplices, one of whom Custaloga suspected, though he had no proof of his guilt. The negro had stoutly refused to confess any thing, and Custaloga and the Silent Hunter had left him to his reflections, persuaded that half an hour would 1.... uce him to alter his determina-La less Ezami ( ), said job. I wild rather not kill the salvages, as worthy John Smith says; but they thirsted for our blood. But that wur cold blood!"

"It is done. When the lightning blasts the oak, it can not give it life again. The black was wicked, but his Manitou would have punished him. But wise men do not wag their tongues;
the negro is dead; let no more be but the best thing we can do is to say that Spiky Jonas is dead and there end the matter."

the sent of the man a later a to President Iller a sharry reason to a traction ci, ; - .....i, and told his story Fig. ... then demanded (d) by constant Tely to wait their well soul Waite all-1. .. .... ( 7 iv the state of the s le .. a. ain. Hy War to it is it is Carter it, and true last lineal brown Tour y marter of the Circular laines. He told them that he believed the cave to be guarded only by two men, who, however, could, if they made a bold defense, do them terrible damage if they openly attacked the place. His idea, therefore, was to enter the cave in the night, trusting to the assistance which the jealous Indian girl—the affianced wife of Tecumsch—would give them.

Dick acquiesced in this the more readily that he was exhausted with fatigue, and his limbs were sore and stiff with what he had suffered.

They had not been gone above ten minutes when there was a movement on the field; and the negro, who had in reality been cut down by one of the Indians, unperceived by the whites, rose with difficulty, and crawled away from the scene of his terrible trial.

The four friends chose a spot where the beeches rose towern a to the skies, like the spires of where all around was deep and gloomy lorest, far away on every side. Here they determined to rest, Custaloga and the Silent Hunter to watch in turns, as they had had some rest on the previous night.

Similar of a line line in the second of the W., M. t. ..... "

the way in the second to the s

with a heavity chest, and of caland

according to his new education, I The state of the Ciara was to the man with the big heart, Amy Moss is to me." ed curiously at him. There was .. She is lost to you-Amy must be lost to me." A strange, odd the Silent Hunter's moritin, "She will wed In : ! .... Squire Barton is har interest to be a squire t. . ..., so is Amy Moss unto 1. I can be to her only the faithful hound, or with -ves Amy of the Moss more than life, and every friend who alds him to serve her is his brother; but the big-hearted white man can not go with Custa to-night-there ii looked half angrily, half ly at Custa.

tiger; it can only blood—he is right. have killed his . . . . .

Len he ceased, Harrod made no reply, but closed his eyes and folded his artus.

"Lay, Harrod, how shall it be ?"

said Custaloga, anxiousty.

Harrod looked up and took the Indian's hand, which he wrung intimated that he yielded.

as silent as any ghosts of derarte l supposed to haunt these woods, went upon their way toward the Ginat Charlet 1 . ( . . . 11: "

Castaloga led the party, the Charte for it is in Indiana met, with arrangement which it had been agreed should be strictly adhered to. It was not long ere they were on the banks of the beautiful river.

"Hist!" said Custaloga, in a low and somewhat husky tone, at which all the men crowded round him: " if we : ... -Glen Hut."

All tell to I then beilt words, and then Custalogusetting the continue of a series of a in his hand, all entered the stream and ventured under cover of the darkness into the waters of the river, which at the time was not so much swollen as on many occasions.

CHAPTER XXIV. BOAT AHOY!

SIR CHARLES CARSTONE lived in . gantly-furnished house and of the file, was a beginning (i s. t. to toll i set tout to e. , se to every quality to rade han his parents' darling and the wor'.: ', nuisance, stood on the other side laying with a dog, a kind of Italian gray-hound.

of forty, with a round face, overdressed, uneducated, and extremely vulgar; but she was rich.

Alderman Pepper had his foible, however—a very common foible in his country, one which marks i.e worshiped the aristocracy, : his shoes if he happened to meet

Had any man alive attempted to cheat Mr. Alderman Pepper out of five pounds, he would have falled; but he was coolly fleeced of twenty thousand pounds by the polished courtier with the utmost case. He even felt obliged to the man for taking the money. He had also taken his daughter.

Poor Lady Carstone was well meaning, though she was ignorant, while the society of the aristocracy with whom she associated, instead of improving, almost rained her.

When breakfast was over Lady Carstone retired to her chamber to dress, the boy ran out to join a room, who had a pony to show

He had an appointment at twelve, and was about to make a movement to keep it, when one John Barty was announced.

"Let him come in," said the baronet, somewhat quickly.

A man entered. The visitor was a man of middle hight, slight, and somewhat bowed in the back, with u long, cadaverous countenance, a 1. oked nose, little restless gray and a general air of poverty and distress about him. He bowed meekly to the baronet, who threw Line of the track of the state of the

"A i : r. v. N....: r Barty," said the large time, " To local the est of the first the first princer tir of your room to his his ar ability N L. O. C. David Land Land Control of the Control o I tall the terminal of state W

( * ) . " 1 " 1 " . . . . . - . . . . t t . . . I list to a second to the comment of the co e gentline the second of to take the hat off to. to the I'm a contract the later to all and the coly 1. occessaly.

"Upon my word, John Barty, money is a very tine thing, but I not think of it as you do for the still as you do for : the gold of the Indies. You'll Why, the very look of you proa Criesus."

"Hush!" said the other; "why say I am rich? You know I am not. I try to be; I make a little here, a little there; I starve myself, I go errands, I introduce gentlemen to moneyed men-and, Sir Charles, why do I do it?"

"Ah, why?—that is a question I have often thought of asking you. Trail the barriet.

"I have a daughter, Sir Charles."

" A dank " ... " ..."

"A daughter, whom I wish to leave happy, Sir Charles, and for whom I do all that I do-a daughter, the image of what her mother was, and she was beautiful."

"Upon my word, Mr. barry, you quite interest me; and if I had not a most special appointment with the prince I should ask you to Confitmet."

"Excuse me, Sir Charles, but I am forgetting important business. Have you not a secret in America, of-?".

"What means this introduction?" exclaimed the haronet.

"Your secret is discovered," said the miser, coolly. "Your cousin, Andrew Carstone, has left for America with an old pal of Dick Blunt's."

The baronet rose hastily, and moved impatiently across the room, clenched his tists, and seemed painfully agitated.

But how do you know!"

"Well, sir, I was down at Greenwich yesterday, and I thief, Corney land, coming down d: eagentleman's groom."

· File ( Other Board A.) "The man where I. We to be I five a finish house he press.

"Go on."

In mining mining tracte and jour - " ing?' 'All right,' says lie, ' -l'in going to 'Meriky with Mr.

"Sdeath," eried the baronet, then he knows all."

"It appears so, Sir Charles," said the money-lender. "Go on. While you speak I may collect my thoughts.'f

Just then a gentleman came up and Ragg joined him. They hailed a boat and went on board a barque bound for New York. It sailed directly."

... This is terrible. Who could have betrayed me? But he may not know-and yet the secret voyage to America, without communi-eating with me. Barty!"

"Yes, sir," said the miser, looking down on the ground meekly.

He felt the attack coming.

"I must have two hundred pounds by this evening, and my passage taken for America!" exclaimed the baronet, looking hard at him.

"Two hundred pounds!" said

Barty; "it can't be done."

" Hearken, Barty-it must done. I am in no humor to bandy words. Time is every thing. I must act first. The furniture of this house is new and good-take it as security, but bring me the money."

"I dare say, Sir Charles, I may find a friend to assist me-the security is good; but, you may be gone some months-Lady Car-stone is very changeable."

" What now ?"

"You may be gone months."

ce Well?

"Lady Carstone is very changeable," said Barty, timidly.

"Well, speak up; do not dis-

"Lady Carstone might wish to change or sell it." "Nonsense! I will leave strict Injunctions." "You had better leave me in the house, Sir Charles. They will want a steward over them in your absence." The baronet laughed grimly. The idea of leaving such a master over Lady Carstone was too ludi-Crous.

"So, good Barty, you shall be steward in my absence-keep good guard over my house; but now go, and let the money be forthcoming."

John Barty bowed and left the room.

"There has been some treachery," said Sir Charles, moodily; "and yet I paid the villains wellthey should have been true. If he finds her, all is lost. He must know it is my doing; and then adieu, even my pension. But if I can arrive in America before him, or with him, and find that Hackett, it shall go hard but I will yet prevent the fatal result."

He then left the room and went to his wife's chamber, to whom he bluntly communicated his intention of going to America-a piece of news which Lady Carstone heard with astonishment, but without regret. She had no reason to lament because her husband gave her a few months of liberty.

Sir Charles spent the day in making his preparations, in bidding adieu to his boon companions, and at seven o'clock in the evening he waited for John Barty in his room. That individual came punctually. He was dressed in a holiday suit, and had a parcel under his arm. He was elean-shaved, and had fresh linen on.

"By my faith, Mr. Barty," cried the baronet, "you are quite a bean -you do me proud. I suppose this is in honor of my poor house."

"Why, Sir Charles, I could hardly expect the servants to mind me, if I did not look like a gentleman."

"No, certainly not;" and Sir

Charles laughed heartily.

"You are amused, sir," said the money-lender.

"No; but have you the money?"

asked the other, quickly.

"Here it is, sir; and here is the bill of sale."

"Bill of sale?" cried the baronet.

"If you repay me, it is void," said John Barty, meekly.

"It is well. You are an honest money-lender in your way."

The man bowed and placed the document for the other's signature. He took up a pen and signed hastily. The miser then handed him the money.

ca?" asked the baronet, secreting the money about his person.

sails at daybreak—he would have you on board to-night. Is all ready?"

"Every thing is ready."

"Does her ladyship know of my position in the house?"

"That is a pleasure I have reserved for her until the last moment, Mr. Barty. She will want some consolation for my absence."

Barty grinned, and would have spoken, but Lady Carstone at that instant entered.

"So, my dear, you are really going," said she, with an affected drawl, rubbing her dry eyes very hard with a pocket-handkerchief.

say, the business on which I go is so imperative, that I must tear myself away."

Well, you know best, Sir Charles; I am not at all a business woman-I never was."

"You ought to have been, madam, considering the time you spent in your worthy father's shop."

"Sir Charles," said the lady, looking imposing and dignified, "what shop do you allude to?"

"The clothier's shop to be sure,

my Lady Carstone."

"My father," said she to John

Barty, " was a banker."

from him—bought a pair once a week when I was courting you, just as an excuse for getting round. But time is passing, Lady Carstone, and I must go. Good-by, my dear; make yourself happy and comfortable; for fear you should be dull, I have left Barty in charge of the house; he'll find you in money while I am gone."

And the baronet, after an affectionate embrace, went out.

"Sir Charles," cried the moneylender, "I never promised to advance my lady a penny."

And he ran after the baronet, without replying to a series of angry questions which Lady Carstone addressed to him. In his hurry he left the deed of sale on the table. Curiosity is the characteristic of women like the baronet's wife. She took up the paper and read it, then smiled, folded it up, and put it in her pocket. At that instant the money-lender came running back, to discover that the document had disappeared.

"My lady! my lady!" he gasped, looking round the room. "A piece of paper—a deed—a business document."

"It is quite safe," said the baronet's lady in dulcet tones, "quite safe, and Mr. Barty shall have it back if he behaves himself. I can not think, however, of letting Sir Charles part with his furniture for so small a sum; I am too much a woman of business."

Barty darted a look of rage and despair at the lady, and ran to the baronet, who was getting impatient.

That night the baronet, under an assumed name, accompanied by John Barty, went down to the water's edge below the hospital at Greenwich. It was a cold and gusty night, and the ship could be dimly seen across the stream.

Next, minute the boat pulled right up to the strand, the baronet's luggage, which had been brought down by strange porters, was put on board; he shook hands with John Barty, and cheerily oh! the boat put off toward the Sir Walter Raleigh, bound for New York.

At daylight the vessel sailed.

To be continued in Dime Novel 148, to issue Tuesday, April 21, in addition to a complete Novel.

BEADLE'S DIME

STUMP SPEAKER.

[SPEAKER SERIES No. 8.]

This number of the popular School Series contains numerous specimens of the latest and best out-of-door and platform oratory, together with a large number of pieces (chiefly humorous and odd), prepared expressly for this issue. The volume will be exceedingly attractive, and, like all the issues of its series, will have an extensive circulation. The following embraces its contents:

Hon. I. Moses Stubbs' Views "On A Plea for the True Republic. the Situation."

Hans Schwackheimer on Woman's Life's Sunset. Suffrage.

All for a Nomination.

Old Ocean.

The Sea, the Sea, the Open Sea.

She Star Bangled Spanner.

Stay where you Belong.

Life is just what you make it.

Where's my Money?

A Stump Speech from the Constable.

A Man's True Relation to Society.

The Limits of True Happiness. Good-Nature, what a Blessing.

A Short Sermon from the Hard-Shell Baptist.

Tail-Enders.

The Value of Money.

A Meteoric Disquisition.

Be Sure you are Right, then Go Ahead.

Be of Good Cheer.

Crabbed Folks.

Taming a Masculine Shrew.

Farmers.

The True Greatness of our Country.

New England and the Union.

The Unseen Battle-field.

America.

Human Nature.

Lawyers.

Wrongs of the Indians.

Appeal in behalf of American Liberty.

The Miseries of War.

A Lay Sermon.

A Dream.

Astronomy.

The Moon.

Duties of American Citizens.

The Man.

Temptations of Large Cities.

Broken Resolutions.

There is No Death.

Races.

A Fruitful Discourse.

A Frenchman's Dinner.

Unjust National Acquisitions.

Phaethon, or the Amateur Coachman.

The Cold-Water Man.

Permanency of States.

Liberty of Speech.

John Thompson's Daughter.

House-Cleaning.

It is not your Business Why.

For sale by all Newsdealers; or sent, Post-Path, to any address, on receipt of price-TEN CENTS. Address, BEADLE AND COMPANY, 98 William Street, N. Y.

BEADLE'S

Standard Dime Publications

NOVELS SERIES.

1. Mainezha.

2. The Privateer's Cruise.

3. Myra, the Child of Adoption.

4. Alice Wilde.

5. The Golden Belt.

6. Chip, the Cave Child.

7. The Recter of 76.

8. Seth Junes.

9. The Slave Sculptor. 10. The Backwoods Bride.

11. The Prisoner of La Vintresse.

12. Bill Bidden, the Trapper.

13, Cedar Swamp.

14. The Emerald Necklaca.

15. The Frontier Angel.

16. Uscle Ezekiel.

17. Mulge Wylde. 18. Nat Todd.

19. Massasoit's Daughter.

20. Florida; or, the fron Will.

21. Sybil Chase.

22. The Maid of Esopus.

23. Winifred Winthrop.

24. The Trail Hanters.

25. The Pean Prince. 26. The Brethren of the Coast,

27. The Daughter of Liberty.

28. King Barnahy.

29, The Forest Spy. 30. Putuant Pontfret's Ward.

31. The Double Hero.

725 from; or, Life on the Border.

33. Magus Guines. (20 cents.) .

34. Ruth Margerie.

35. East and West.

36. The Riffemen of the Miami.

37. Godbold, the Spy.

38, The Wrong Man-

8s. The Land Claims. 40. The Unionist's Daughter (voc.)

41. The Hunter's Cabin.

42. The King's Man.

43. The Allens,

44. Agues Faikland.

45. Esther; or, the Oregon Trail.

46. The Wreck of the Albion.

47. Tim Bumble's Charge.

48. Opnottion, the Haron.

49. The Gold Hunters.

50, The Black Ship.

51. The Two Guards.

52. Single Eye.

53. Hutes and Loves.

54. Myrtle, the Child of the Frairie

55. Off and Ou. 56. Aluno's Piot.

57. The Scout.

50. Tue Mad Hunter.

59. Kent, the Ranger.

so, Jo Davies Client,

51. Laughing Eyes. 62. The Unknown

63. The Indian Princess.

64. The Rangers of the Muhawk.

65. The Weecker's Prize.

ss. The Hunter's Vew.

87. Indian Jun.

68. The Brigantine.

69. Black Hollow.

70. The Indian Queen.

71. The Lost Trail.

72. The Moose Hunter,

73. The Silver Bugle.

14. The Cruiser of the Chempeake.

75 The Hunter's Escape.

76. The Scout's Prize.

77: Quimbro. 78. The Rival Scouts.

79. The Schuylkill Rangers.

80. Eagle Eye.

81. The Two Hunters.

St. The Mystle Canon.

83. The Golden Harpoon.

84. The Seminole Chief.

85. The Fugitives.

26. Reil Plume.

87. On the Deep.

88. Captain Molly.

89, Star Eyes.

80, Cast Away. 01. The Lost Cacha.

92. The Twin Scouts.

93, The Creole Sisters.

94. The Mad Skipper.

95. Eph Peters.

96, Little Bloccasin.

97. The Dogmed Hunter.

98. Ruth Harland.

99, Overboard,

100, Karniba.

101. The Maid of Wyoming.

102. Hearts Forever.

103. Big Foot, the Guide.

104. Guilty or Not Guilty.

105. The Man in Green.

106. Simple Phil.

187. The Peddler Spy.

108. The Lost Ship.

109. Kidnappest.

110. The Hidden Home.

Illi, The Shawness For,

117. The Fulson Raver.

113. Rattlepate. 114. Ned Starling.

115. The Sons of Liberty.

116. Port-ut Last.

117. The Mohegan Malden.

148. The Water Walf.

119. The Five Champions.

170. The Hunchback,

121. The Valled Benefactress,

122. Barden, the Ranger.

123. The Missing Bride.

124. Samter's Scouls.

175. The Hunted Life.

126. Old Jupe. 127. Bald Engle.

128. The Gulch Minera.

109. Bincheves. p. 1

130. Brave Heart.

141. The Wrecker's Daughter.

Liz. Old Honesty.

tal. Yankee Eph.

734 Foul weather Jack.

135. The Cherokee Chief.

13b. The Indian Planters. 1167. The Trust of Spy.

1.58. Tim, the Senul.

has, The Berder Fees,

14n. Sheet Auchor Jon.

ball. The Helpiess Hand.

142. The Segamere of haco.

14t. The Swattep Scout. 144. The Prairie Trappers.

FAMILY SERIES.

1. Cook Book.

2. Recipe Beck.

S. Housewife's Manual.

4. Family Physician.

5. Dresonaking and Millinery.

FIGTION.

1. The Marked Bullet.

2. The Outlaw Brothers.

3. The Willing Captive.

4. The Deer Hunters.

5. The Dacotah Queen,

6. Missing Jo.

7. Gottlieb Gettsoock.

S. Profrie Chick.

2. Roving Ben.

LIBRARY.

1. The White-faced Pacer.

2. The Blacksmith of Antwerp.

3. The Maiden Martyr.

4. The Loyalist,

5. The Country Cousin.

5. The Messenger.

BIOGRAPHIES.

1. Garibaldi.

2. Daniel Boone.

3. Kit Carson.

4. Anthony Wayne. 5. David Crockett.

K. Winfield Scott.

7. Pontiac.

B. John C. Fremont. 9. John Paul Jones.

10. Marquis de Lafayette. II. Terumach,

General George B. McClellan. 13. Parson Brownlow.

14. Abraham Lincoln. 15. Ulyases S. Grant.

MEN OF THE TIME, Nov. 1, 2 and 3. SCHOOL SERIES.

L. American Speaker. Z. National Speaker.

IL Patriotic Speaker.

1. Comic Speaker.

5. Elecutionist.

ii. Humoridus Speaker. 1. Standard Speaker.

DISLOGUER, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Melodist. School Melodist,

HAND-BOOKS OF GAMES.

Guide to Curling and Skntug. Hard-Book of Pedestrianisms Yachting and Rowing. Riding and Driving.

Book of Cricket Snil Fact-hall.

Ranc-Bull Player for 1867.

Book of Croquet. POPULAR HAND-BOOKS.

1. Letter-Writer.

Chem Instructor

Y. Book of Etiquette.

Saide to Swimming.

3. Book of Verses. 4. Book of Dreams.

SOME BOOKS. Song Books, Nov. 1 to 20. Porket Songstors, Non. 1 to h.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Dime Tales, Nos 1 to 12. Books of Fun, Nos. 1, 2 and A. Robinson Crosce, (Hlustrated).

The New House that Jack Built, For sale by all Newsdealers; or sent, Posy-Path, to any address, on receipt of price-TEN CENTS EACH.

BEADLE AND COMPANY, Publishers, 118 William St., N. Y.